Union Home Minister Amit Shah on Tuesday hit back at Congress leader Rahul Gandhi over allegations regarding the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls, asking Gandhi to introspect instead of blaming the exercise for his party's repeated electoral defeats.

"The SIR only came into effect after 2024. Ever since you emerged as the principal leader of the Congress, and subsequently as its president and the Leader of the Opposition, the party has consistently lost elections," Shah told reporters in Delhi. CONTINUED ON P4

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday presented India's economic and technological rise as a means of creating opportunities for other countries, saying the country's approach was guided by the principle of "Power to Empower" rather than gaining at others' expense.

"We do not grow at anyone's cost. We grow with the world, and for the world," Modi said while addressing the Bloomberg New Economy Forum. Citing India's economic fundamentals, Modi said the economy grew 7.8 per cent in the April-June quarter, while foreign-exchange reserves exceeded USD 700 billion. He attributed the country's CONTINUED ON P4

TAKEAWAYS

- He wanted to return to Tamil Nadu to strengthen the BJP in the state
- This was the third resignation of a Minister of State (MoS) from the Council of Ministers after George Kurian and Ravneet Singh Bittu, who quit in June and July respectively

Minister of State L Murugan resigned from the Union Council of Ministers on Tuesday, saying he wanted to return to Tamil Nadu to strengthen the BJP in the state. His resignation gave rise to speculation about an imminent Union Cabinet rejig.

This was the third resignation of a Minister of State (MoS) from the Council of Ministers after George Kurian and Ravneet Singh Bittu, who quit in June and July, respectively, after they were denied renomination to Rajya Sabha by the BJP.

Murugan has been a member of the Rajya Sabha since September 2021 and was re-elected to the Upper House in April 2024 from Madhya Pradesh. His tenure ends in April 2030. The minister said he wants to give up his Rajya Sabha membership.

Union Petroleum Minister Hardeep Singh Puri was also not renominated by the BJP in the just-concluded Rajya Sabha elections from Uttar Pradesh. However, he continues to be a member of the Union Cabinet.

Similarly, MoS in the Ministry of Consumer Affairs, BL Verma, did not find a place in the list of Rajya Sabha nominations. He also continues to be in office.

Two other MoS, Pankaj Chaudhary and Harsh Malhotra, who were made chief of BJP's Uttar Pradesh and Delhi units, respectively, in recent months, continue to discharge both the responsibilities.

"I requested our Prime Minister to relieve me from the Council of Ministers and the Rajya Sabha because I want to go to Tamil Nadu to strengthen our party. In my letter to the Prime Minister, I stated that I want to strengthen our party by going to villages, streets and everywhere else and prepare the ground for the 2029 parliamentary elections," Murugan was quoted as having said in media reports.

In his letter to PM Narendra Modi, Murugan, Minister of State for Information and Broadcasting and Parliamentary Affairs, said it was the "greatest honour" of CONTINUED ON P4

'Ladakh is integral part of India, no denial can change this'

SIMONTINI BHATTACHARJEE
New Delhi, October 13

Ladakh is an "integral and inalienable part of India", New Delhi underlined on Tuesday after China raised objections as the Central government identified and standardised the names of 28 strategic places in the Union Territory of Ladakh for official mapping.

On October 2, India formally identified 28 strategic locations and geographical features in Ladakh, including key border friction points along the Line of Actual Control (LAC) such as Gogra and Hot Spring, on the official Indian map.

"Identifying these places formally on the Survey of India map of UT of Ladakh is aimed at facilitating their accurate recognition and better awareness among the public at large," the Ministry of External Affairs said in a statement.

Gogra and Hot Spring are among the major strategic locations and were friction points during the 2020 standoff between Indian and Chinese forces. The locations are crucial for Indian patrolling along the LAC.

India's reaction came hours after China strongly opposed New Delhi assigning the standardised names.

"It is reiterated that the UT (Union Territory) of Ladakh is an integral and inalienable part of India. No amount of denial by the Chinese side can change this established fact," the MEA spokesperson Randhir Jaiswal said.

He said the press release by the Ministry of Home Affairs of October 2 that China referred to, is "self-explanatory". CONTINUED ON P4

- SNS report flags 37,701 cases returned without orders
- Nine commissions returned cases between July 2025 and June 2026
- CIC returned 14,603 cases during the review period
- Five commissions withheld data on returned appeals and complaints

As many as 3.85 lakh appeals and complaints were pending across 28 information commissions as of June 30, 2026, while concerns have been raised over cases being returned without orders, according to a report by a transparency watchdog.

As the Right to Information (RTI) Act completed 21 years on October 12, the report by Satark Nagrik Sangathan (SNS) found that nine information commissions returned 37,701 cases without passing orders between July 2025 and June 2026.

The figure covers only the nine commissions that provided the data.

The Central Information Commission (CIC) accounted for 14,603 returned cases, followed by the Maharashtra State Information Commission with 14,140, Bihar with 4,417 and Gujarat with 3,276, the report said.

Five commissions did not provide data on the number of appeals and complaints returned.

Anjali Bhardwaj, founder of SNS, told PTI that the central government and some state governments had prescribed formats for filing second appeals, and commissions returned cases that did not conform to those formats.

She claimed some appeals were returned over minor defects such as missing page numbers. "The commission must facilitate people's right to information and not create unnecessary bureaucratic hurdles in accessing information," she said. CONTINUED ON P4

FIVE ARRESTED OVER ALLEGED ASSAULT ON MAN AT NIGHTCLUB

Man pays with his life for beer spill

OUR CORRESPONDENT
New Delhi, October 13

Five people, including bouncers, a club manager and his wife, were arrested for the death of a man who was allegedly assaulted by the couple and the staff for spilling beer on the woman at a nightclub here, police said on Tuesday.

The incident took place late on October 10 at Tor House nightclub near Ashok Park Metro station under the Sarai Rohilla police station area, they said. Among the five, three bouncers have also been arrested.

The deceased, identified as Daljeet, was a resident of Raghuvir Nagar and is survived by his wife Pooja, an eight-year-old son and his father.

According to the police, Daljeet had gone to the nightclub with five to six of his friends for a party when some liquid spilt on the wife of the club manager. A verbal altercation broke out, following which bouncers were called and Daljeet was allegedly assaulted.

Daljeet and his friends apologised and requested them to stop, but they kept assaulting the group with sticks and glass bottles.

Friends of the deceased told mediapersons that the attackers continued thrashing Daljeet despite repeated pleas to spare him. "We were thrashed brutally," one of the friends, Sunny, who sustained a minor head injury, said.

They alleged that when the group tried to escape, the bouncers dragged them back inside and assaulted them again.

According to his friends, the attackers also poured water on them during the assault after covering his face. Daljeet sustained severe injuries, including a fractured jaw, and was in a bad state.

His friends, including Nishu and Pawan, somehow managed to take him out of the club and brought him to his residence in Raghuvir Nagar. Daljeet collapsed near the entrance of his house, after which his wife and friends took him to Guru Gobind Singh Hospital, where doctors declared him dead.

Police said Daljeet had returned home after the assault and was feeling unwell. His wife subsequently took him to the hospital, where he was declared dead. Sunny further said that he received a call from the deceased's wife after the incident.

"I am his friend. I got a call from his wife. That he was not moving and we rushed him to the hospital, where he was declared dead," Sunny said.

He added that "We have seen the CCTV footage and it was horrific. Daljeet was thrashed brutally. Those who did this to him must be strictly punished."

The victim's friends also alleged that one of the accused brandished a firearm during the incident. They further claimed that the accused took cash and two mobile phones from the group. Police are examining the allegations as part of the investigation. The friends said the nightclub's CCTV cameras had captured the assault and demanded strict action against those involved. Police have seized the nightclub's digital video recorder (DVR) and are examining the CCTV footage to reconstruct the sequence of events and identify other people involved in the assault.

The family also alleged that they had called the police control room during the incident, but a police response vehicle arrived outside the club and left without conducting an inquiry. The allegation is being looked into.

Police are also examining whether the nightclub had the requisite permissions to operate late at night. Records have been sought from the Excise Department and the Licensing Branch, according to information provided in connection with the case.

The arrests have been made as the investigation continues, with police probing the circumstances leading to the altercation, the alleged assault and the victim's death.

The deceased driver's wife, Pooja, said he was the only breadwinner of the house.

"He went to the club with his friends. I only got to know that bouncers thrashed him so ruthlessly that he died. I want justice for my eight-year-old child and me," she added.

Police said that further investigation is underway.

Partial opening of roads near Connaught Place, Janpath and Patel Chowk has created chaos as traffic snarled in the capital, leaving commuters frustrated as they battled with traffic jams in the midday heat.

While the Delhi Police has opened up some stretches, barricades still mar most of the road, impeding traffic and leaving two-wheelers fuming as they queued in the sun. Many commuters moaned about the restrictions, complaining that the police should either keep the roads open or close them completely. "Delhi Police must either close it completely or keep it open," said Shashank, a 32-year-old IT professional. "I am stuck in this traffic jam for the last 45 minutes."

STUDENTS DEMAND CEC'S RESIGNATION; NSUI NATIONAL PRESIDENT AMONG THOSE DETAINED

NSUI's flash protest & mass detentions at Rajiv Chowk

ANAMTA FATIMA
New Delhi, October 13

Tensions flared in the heart of the national capital on Tuesday as the National Students' Union of India (NSUI) staged a high-intensity flash protest near Gate No. 7 of the Rajiv Chowk Metro Station. Hundreds of student activists gathered to demand the immediate resignation of Chief Election Commissioner (CEC) Gyanesh Kumar, centering their outcry on allegations of electoral irregularities and "Vote Chori".

The demonstration, which drew a heavy deployment of Delhi Police personnel across Connaught Place, quickly escalated. NSUI National President Vinod Jakhar and hundreds of student protesters were detained and whisked away by law enforcement.

Allegations of custodial assault and missing CCTV

The situation took a grim turn following the detentions, with allegations of physical abuse emerging from within police custody. NSUI candidate Athira Vijayan, who was among those detained, alleged that she was subjected to severe physical assault inside the police station. According to her, several officers beat and vigorously kicked her despite her offering no resistance.

Adding to the gravity of the accusations, Vijayan claimed that the detention facility lacked functional CCTV coverage. In response to the developments, NSUI National President Vinod Jakhar rushed to Lady Hardinge Medical College (Gate No. 6), where two female NSUI members including Vijayan were taken for their mandatory Medico-Legal Certificate (MLC) examinations. Jakhar stated that after the completion of the medical assessments, he would directly proceed to the Parliament Street Police Station to confront the Deputy Commissioner of Police (DCP) over the alleged brutality.

Leadership condemns State action

Condemning the crackdown, Vinod Jakhar asserted that state machinery cannot dampen the resolve of the student community.

"The detention of student activists cannot silence our demand for accountability from the Election Commission," Jakhar said. "When young people raise questions about electoral transparency and demand answers on 'Vote Chori,' the government must respond instead of using police force to stop peaceful protests."

NSUI National Media Incharge Ravi Hanuman Pandey echoed these sentiments, labeling the police action undemocratic and heavy-handed. He warned that the movement would only intensify.

"We strongly condemn the undemocratic detention of our members," Pandey stated. "Instead of detaining students for exercising their democratic rights, authorities must address questions regarding electoral transparency. Our movement against 'Vote Chori' will continue with even greater determination."

The protest comes amidst heightened political friction in the capital following the recent denotification of Jantar Mantar as a designated protest site. Despite mounting restrictions, NSUI leadership maintains that their struggle for institutional accountability and the protection of democratic values will persist through peaceful and democratic channels.

Delhi widens its clean-air net

Centre, Delhi review emissions; 13 new monitoring stations, 150 e-buses added

AIMAN FATIMA
New Delhi, October 13

With Anand Vihar among Delhi's major pollution hotspots, the Centre and the Delhi government on Tuesday reviewed measures to tackle emissions at the congested transit hub, while expanding the Capital's air-quality monitoring network from 47 to 60 stations and flagging off 150 electric buses.

Union Environment Minister Bhupender Yadav and Delhi Chief Minister Rekha Gupta inspected the mitigation measures at Anand Vihar before visiting the Delhi Pollution Control Committee's (DPCC) AI-enabled Integrated Command and Control Centre (ICCC) at Shastri Park.

The 13 newly inaugurated Continuous Ambient Air Quality Monitoring Stations (CAAQMS) will provide continuous air-quality and meteorological data to support pollution assessment, enforcement and public dissemination of the Air Quality Index (AQI). The stations have been installed across locations including Ghummanhera, Chhawla, Karala, Hastsal, Burari, Narela, Maidan Garhi, Nangloi and Badarpur.

The expanded network will provide real-time information through the Central Pollution Control Board's server and the SAMEER mobile application. Yadav said monitoring was being strengthened through a grid-based approach, with stations covering approximately one location for every 25 square kilometres in Delhi. The grid is expected to be expanded to other National Capital Region cities.

At Anand Vihar, officials identified traffic congestion, bus movement, road dust, unpaved roads and parking areas, construction activity, illegal dumping of construction waste and open garbage burning among the major pollution sources.

Yadav said short- and long-term interventions had been assigned to 11 agencies. Measures included paving internal roads, removing encroachments and illegal construction-waste dumps, and enforcing dust-control measures at construction sites. Greening activities are also being undertaken.

The minister said coordinated efforts by Delhi government departments had helped contain pollution at the hotspot.

The two leaders also inaugurated public electric-vehicle charging stations at ISBT Anand Vihar and the Nand Nagri, Rohini Sector-37, Nangloi and Keshopur depots, alongside flagging off 150 electric buses at Swami Vivekanand ISBT, Anand Vihar.

The ICCC at Shastri Park is designed to integrate data on air quality, dust-control sites, noise levels, industrial emissions, stubble burning, public grievances and enforcement vehicles. Of the 15 external data systems planned for integration, nine have been connected, with the remaining six to be integrated in phases.

The centre is intended to enable real-time monitoring and coordinated action by agencies responsible for pollution control across Delhi.

Delhi Education Minister Ashish Sood on Tuesday distributed 432 bicycles to Class 9 girl students at a government girls' school in Janakpuri, stressing that education should build students' confidence and independence alongside academic performance.

The distribution was organised under the Vidya Vahini Yojana, launched on July 31, 2026. Around 26,000 bicycles have been distributed to students across Delhi under the scheme so far, according to the government.

Addressing the students, Sood said practical knowledge, communication skills and self-confidence were essential for future employment, urging parents to encourage their daughters to ride bicycles and become independent. "When a candidate applies for a job, recruiters often set the mark sheet aside first. What truly opens doors for you is how confidently you speak and how well you understand your subject. This bicycle is not just a gift, it is a tool to boost your self-confidence and independence," he said.

The minister also reviewed educational facilities developed in the Janakpuri constituency, including smart classrooms, digital libraries and language laboratories. The constituency has 255 smart classrooms, two digital libraries, four information and communication technology (ICT) labs and five language labs, officials said. Highlighting the expansion of digital infrastructure, Sood said 9,000 smart boards and 20,000 computers had been installed in Delhi government schools this year. An equal number of devices is planned for installation in the next financial year, according to the release. Students are also being taught languages such as French, German, Spanish, Sanskrit and Kannada as part of efforts to broaden their learning opportunities. Describing the changes in government schools, the minister said the education system had moved from classrooms where children sat on jute mats and wrote on wooden slates to technology-enabled learning environments equipped with smart boards and Chromebooks.

Addressing the students' aspirations, Sood linked their education to the national development target of 2047.

Aadhaar identification mandatory to avail benefits of govt's power subsidy scheme

OUR CORRESPONDENT
New Delhi, October 13

Delhi government has made Aadhaar identification mandatory for consumers to avail the benefits of its power subsidy scheme amid a steady rise in beneficiaries and a burgeoning power subsidy bill borne by the exchequer.

According to official figures, by February 2026, the Delhi government's allocation for power subsidy reached Rs 4,037.63 crore. For the current financial year (2026-27), the government has budgeted Rs 3,500 crore for this purpose.

Power consumers in Delhi rose by nearly 40 per cent in the last decade, currently standing at over 73 lakh.

In 2024-25, around 84 per cent (52.3 lakh) of 73 lakh domestic consumers availed power subsidy in Delhi, which rose to 87 per cent (55 lakh) in 2025-26, according to official data.

Under the Delhi government scheme, consumers are provided 200 units of electricity per month free of cost. Those consuming 201 to 400 units of electricity get a 50 per cent subsidy (capped at Rs 800) per month.

According to a recent notification issued by the Power Department, the electricity subsidy scheme is administered through Delhi discoms, namely BSES Rajdhani Power Limited (BRPL), BSES Yamuna Power Limited (BYPL), Tata Power Delhi Distribution Limited (TPDDL), New Delhi Municipal Council (NDMC) and Military Engineer Services (MES) in their respective areas.

The Delhi government "deems it fit" to establish the beneficiary's identity as a condition for the receipt of the subsidy benefit. Such a beneficiary will furnish "proof of possession of a bona fide Aadhaar number", it said.

Under Section 7 of the Aadhaar Act, 2016, the Delhi Lieutenant Governor notified that to avail the benefit of the scheme, individuals will have to furnish their Aadhaar number on the web portal or any other mode as may be decided by the government.

The consumers who do not have Aadhaar enrolment in Delhi will have to apply for it and submit the requisite details for availing the subsidy with the 14-digit Enrolment ID number, it said.

The use of Aadhaar number to establish foolproof identity enables individuals to receive subsidies, benefits and services in a convenient and seamless manner, obviates the need for multiplicity of documents to establish identity, simplifies processes and promotes transparency and efficiency, it added.

MCD deploys 12 multi-purpose vehicles to tackle dust pollution

ANAMTA FATIMA
New Delhi, October 13

The Municipal Corporation of Delhi (MCD) on Tuesday flagged off 12 truck-mounted multi-purpose vehicles equipped with anti-smog guns, water sprinklers and jetting systems to strengthen dust suppression, road cleaning and sanitation across the city.

Delhi Mayor Pravesh Wahi flagged off the vehicles from the Dr S.P.M. Civic Centre, the MCD headquarters. Each vehicle has a water tank capacity of 7,000 litres and is designed to undertake multiple civic maintenance activities, including road washing, drain jetting and cleaning of public toilets.

According to the MCD, the vehicles will help control airborne dust particles generated by road dust, construction activities and other sources. Their jetting systems will also be used to clear blockages in small covered drains and culverts, while washing guns will facilitate the cleaning of public toilets and other public spaces. The vehicles have been procured at a cost of Rs 35.06 lakh each and have an estimated service life of 15 years. The civic body said they would be operated under an operation and maintenance model to ensure regular upkeep and efficient utilisation.

Cancer drug worth over Rs 9L missing from Delhi hospital

OUR CORRESPONDENT
New Delhi, October 13

Four boxes containing injections of a cancer drug went missing from the Delhi State Cancer Institute in east Delhi's Dilshad Garden, prompting the registration of an FIR, police said on Tuesday.

The estimated retail value of the missing medicines is between Rs 9 lakh and Rs 10.8 lakh, according to experts.

The complaint, filed by Dr Pankaj Tyagi, associate professor of gastroenterology at the institute, stated that four boxes containing nimotuzumab 200 mg injections, with each box containing four vials of 50 mg each, were found missing from a designated refrigerator in the chemotherapy day care department on the second floor.

Nimotuzumab is a monoclonal antibody used in targeted cancer treatment. It works by targeting the epidermal growth factor receptor (EGFR), a protein involved in the growth of cancer cells. It is used in the treatment of certain cancers, including head and neck cancer and glioma.

According to the complaint, the injections were placed in the refrigerator on October 3 between 5.30 pm and 6 pm, after the completion of chemotherapy procedures.

When the refrigerator was opened on October 5 to issue the medicines for use, the four boxes were found missing, the complaint stated.

The institute constituted a committee to conduct an internal inquiry into the reported shortage and examine the relevant stock and medicine records, according to the complaint.

An immediate response on the matter was not available from the hospital.

The matter was subsequently brought to the notice of the police for verification and investigation.

An FIR was registered on October 12 at the G T B Enclave police station under Section 305(a) of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita. The accused has been listed as unknown in the FIR.

The police said that they have initiated an investigation into the matter. The official further said the hospital had reported similar incidents in the past, adding that the possibility of an organised network dealing would also be examined as part of the investigation.

Govt launches ₹170 cr infrastructure projects

OUR CORRESPONDENT
New Delhi, October 13

The Delhi government has launched infrastructure projects worth around Rs 170 crore across nine industrial areas, covering nearly 15 km of roads and 34 km of stormwater drainage systems, to address long-standing civic deficiencies and improve industrial connectivity.

Chief Minister Rekha Gupta inaugurated the projects at Rajasthani Udyog Nagar Industrial Area on Tuesday, assuring that there would be no shortage of funds for industrial development. She said the government aimed to improve road conditions, prevent waterlogging and ensure that no industrial area was left out of the development process.

The projects will also include underground utility ducts for electricity, water, telecommunications and other services to minimise repeated excavation of roads. The government expects the upgrades to improve traffic movement, reduce dust and vehicle-related pollution, and create better conditions for industrial operations.

Industries Minister Manjinder Singh Sirsa said several industrial areas had suffered from inadequate infrastructure for years, leaving roads in poor condition. He stressed that the initiative would focus not only on construction but also on regular maintenance to ensure the infrastructure remained in good condition over the long term.

The projects cover Rajasthani Udyog Nagar, GTK Udyog Nagar, Naraina Industrial Area, Lawrence Road, Najafgarh (Rama Road), DLF Moti Nagar, Nangloi Jat and S-Block, and Okhla Phase II, among other locations.

Sirsa said improved roads, drainage and utility management would facilitate the movement of goods, enhance business efficiency and support investment and employment generation across Delhi's industrial areas.

STRESSES CAREFUL PLANNING

L-G Sandhu says PPPs not the answer for every project

SHIVANGI SHUKLA
New Delhi, October 13

Delhi Lieutenant Governor Sardar TS Sandhu on Tuesday stressed that public private partnerships (PPPs) must be chosen carefully, saying not every project is suited to the model. He said financial sustainability, affordable services and long term maintenance must be considered before a project is taken up. Addressing a capacity building programme at Guru Gobind Singh Indraprastha University (GGSIPU) in Dwarka, Sandhu said the decision to involve private players should depend on the nature of the service, the capacity of the public authority, the risks involved and the outcomes expected by citizens.

He cautioned that completing a project on time does not necessarily guarantee its success. A project may be technically feasible but financially unsustainable, or attract private investment without delivering affordable services. Poorly planned maintenance arrangements could also create difficulties after a project becomes operational. These issues, he said, need to be addressed during planning rather than after implementation begins. Sandhu said projects should be assessed throughout their lifecycle, with proper feasibility studies, financial and legal checks, realistic demand projections and consultations with stakeholders. He added that risks should be assigned to the party best equipped to manage them.

He also highlighted the need for better coordination between government departments, regulators and local bodies, with clear responsibilities and time-bound decisions. Performance indicators, monitoring, incentives, penalties, dispute resolution and transparency in procurement and evaluation were among the other measures he emphasised. The LG said Delhi's development priorities, including urban infrastructure, public transport, healthcare, education, water management, energy and digital governance, were interconnected. Appropriate private sector participation in these areas, he said, could support the vision of Viksit Delhi 2047.

Describing PPPs as more than an alternative source of funding, Sandhu said the model brings together public objectives and private sector capabilities. He also referred to Prime Minister Narendra Modi's emphasis on infrastructure development under GatiShakti. The programme brought together the Delhi government, academia and industry, with GGSIPU serving as the Lead Knowledge Institution under the State Institution of Transformation. Sandhu said the proposed PPP Playbook should offer practical guidance on project selection, feasibility, contracts, risk allocation, approvals and performance monitoring.

SAUDI HAS BEEN FACING A SERIES OF DEADLY ATTACKS

India asks its nationals in Saudi to 'remain calm and vigilant'

MPOST BUREAU
Dubai, October 13

India on Tuesday advised its nationals in Saudi Arabia to remain calm and stay vigilant in view of an evolving security situation in the Gulf kingdom.

Saudi Arabia has been facing a series of deadly drone and missile attacks targeting civilian infrastructure by Yemen's Iran-backed Houthi rebels.

"In view of the current situation, all Indian nationals in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia are advised to remain calm and vigilant, stay indoors in case of an aerial attack, and follow the instructions issued by local authorities through official channels," the Indian Embassy said in its latest advisory.

The mission also advised Indian nationals "to refrain from circulating or reposting any videos or news related to the ongoing events."

The advisory came after an Indian national was killed in the attack on King Khalid International Airport in Riyadh on October 10, which also left several people injured, including 11 Indian nationals.

India's Ambassador to Saudi Arabia attended the funeral of Mohammed Yousef Ali, who was killed in the attack and offered condolences to his family.

"The funeral rites of late Mohammed Yousef Ali, who unfortunately lost his life in the Riyadh airport attack, were completed on October 12, 2026, in Riyadh, as per the wishes of his family. Ambassador and Embassy officials attended the funeral," the Indian mission said.

It said among those injured, four persons currently remain in the ICU, 4 are receiving medical care in the normal ward, while 3 persons have been discharged.

"The Embassy officials continue to visit the hospitals where the injured Indian nationals are receiving medical treatment, and are in constant touch with their family members and providing all possible support," the Indian mission said.

Regarding the suspension of operations at the King Khalid International Airport in Riyadh, the Indian mission said the General Authority of Civil Aviation (GACA) has announced the suspension of operations.

"Flight operations at other major airports such as Dammam, Jeddah, and Medina are continuing but face some disruptions," it said.

Crimes and atrocities by terrorists must count as crimes against humanity: India

MPOST BUREAU
United Nations, Oct 13

India has said that crimes and atrocities perpetrated by terrorists should be reflected within the framework of crimes against humanity, given the "grave nature" of terror acts and their impact on people.

"The overarching objective of international law is the preservation of universal values of humanity. Serious violations of international law run counter to the spirit and purposes of the Charter of the United Nations," Counsellor in the Permanent Mission of India to the UN R. Mythili said on Monday.

Delivering India's statement at the 81st Session of the UNGA Sixth Committee on 'UN Conference of Plenipotentiaries on Prevention and Punishment of Crimes against Humanity,' she said that states bear the responsibility to ensure justice and accountability for grave human rights violations and mass atrocities committed within their territory or by their nationals in accordance with their national legislation.

India noted that existing international instruments already address, to a considerable extent, the prevention and punishment of crimes against humanity.

"Any new legally-binding instrument should complement rather than duplicate existing international legal mechanisms," Mythili said.

India stressed that "crimes and atrocities perpetrated by terrorists, where they meet the requisite threshold, should be appropriately reflected within the framework of crimes against humanity, given the grave nature of such acts and their impact on people.

"This should, however, be considered in a manner consistent with the overall approach of the draft articles and without simply transposing existing legal regimes into a new convention," she said. Further, India said a clear jurisdictional linkage should guide the exercise of jurisdiction by states over crimes against humanity.

"States exercising territorial jurisdiction or active nationality jurisdiction are generally best placed to investigate and prosecute such crimes effectively. Territorial and national jurisdiction should therefore be accorded primacy, taking into account the interest of justice, the rights of the accused, and the interest of victims," she said. She emphasised that such an approach is grounded in the fundamental principles of international law, recognising the sovereign prerogative of states to exercise jurisdiction through their national courts over crimes committed within their territory or by their nationals.

India underlined the need to strengthen national capacities for the effective prevention, investigation and prosecution of crimes against humanity.

"International cooperation and technical assistance should support and enhance national mechanisms rather than duplicate them," she said.

India stressed that the nature, scope, and format of any future legally-binding instrument should not be predetermined without comprehensive and substantive deliberation on all aspects of the draft articles. "The concerns and views of all member states, including those that are not parties to existing international instruments, must be considered through a transparent, inclusive, and meaningful dialogue within the preparatory committee meetings," she said.

INDIA bloc

including Tejashwi Yadav and Manoj Jha of the RJD, Mahua Maji (JMM), Harendra Malik, Anand Bhadauria and Mohibullah Nadvi (SP), M A Baby (CPI-M), D Raja and P Sandosh Kumar (CPI), AISA chief Neha Bora, Dipankar Bhattacharya (CPI-ML), Sagarika Ghose and Mahua Moitra (TMC), were among those in attendance. Civil society members Prashant Bhushan and Yogendra Yadav attended the event as well.

Addressing reporters jointly, INDIA bloc MPs vowed to continue the fight against alleged "vote chori" in a united manner.

"We are all standing here together as one. As I said yesterday, there are no parallel protests, there is one singular protest and the protest has one mission – 'restoration of democracy in India'. Democracy has been destroyed in this country, the election system has been destroyed, the Constitution has been torn up and thrown away. We are fighting together to restore democratic rule," Rahul Gandhi said, flanked by party chief Kharge and other INDIA bloc leaders.

"The one method of expression of democracy was Jantar Mantar, and now, the government has decided that Jantar Mantar can no longer be used to express democratic feelings. Well, we are going to challenge that idea," Gandhi said.

"The people who have done this – Mr Modi, who is the main architect, Mr Amit Shah, who is the implementer, Mr Gyanesh Kumar and others -- they need to understand that the net is closing around them. It is not going to be so simple that you can destroy the Indian Constitution and get away with it," Gandhi said.

"This is not about us, this is about the people of India, this is about the future of the people of India, and we, all of us together, because we love you and we respect you, are going to fight to the end to restore democratic process in this country," Gandhi said.

Asked about the opposition leaders moving court, Gandhi said the leaders have extreme respect for the Supreme Court, for the Chief Justice of India and for the judicial system.

"They have a role to play, we hope they will play that role, but, we are also political people and no matter what happens, no matter which institution plays a role, or does not play a role, political resistance will continue, people's resistance will continue and it will triumph," Gandhi added.

After the over one-and-a-half-hour meeting at Gandhi's residence, Kharge said senior leaders of the INDIA bloc discussed the prevailing situation and how to carry forward the campaign to seek CEC Kumar's resignation.

RJD leader Tejashwi Yadav said everyone had seen the manner in which the CEC tried to "crush" democracy at the behest of PM Modi and Amit Shah and the BJP.

CPI-M general secretary M A Baby said, "We will take our protest forward. The government first committed vote chori and is now involved in stealing the Jantar Mantar protest site."

NCP-SCP leader Supriya Sule said the Constitution is in danger and the united fight against "vote chori" will continue. Shiv Sena (UBT) leader Sanjay Raut said Kumar acted as a "mafia" and had "criminalised the entire system".

TMC MP Sagarika Ghose alleged that the Gyanesh Kumar-headed Election Commission is destroying free and fair elections in India and said the West Bengal government is "illegitimate" as it is in power through a stolen mandate.

According to Ghose, the governments in the four states had been stained with the charges of "vote theft" and the current government in West Bengal had won the elections through manipulation.

Ghose reiterated the demand by the party to stop the SIR process immediately and restore the old electoral list.

AISA president Neha Bora alleged that the BJP compromised on democracy and the Constitution because it never had a role in making India's democracy.

Shah slams Rahul

Shah also said the kind of "negative politics" the Congress has been engaged in will not benefit it as the opposition party needs to understand people and connect with the public.

"I want to tell Shri Rahul ji and his associates to prepare themselves once again for a crushing defeat in 2029. In the 2029 general elections, the NDA is going to win with a resounding majority, and the Congress is going to face defeat for the fourth consecutive time.

"The people of this country are with Narendra Modi ji, with the BJP, with the NDA. You cannot deny this truth," he told journalists.

Slamming Gandhi, Shah said people of India know his plans of "getting infiltrators registered as voters. I want to ask Shri Rahul Gandhi ji directly: Is this the result of the SIR? The SIR started only after 2024.

"Ever since you became the principal leader of the Congress, and later its president, and now the Leader of the Opposition, the Congress party has continuously lost elections. You need to engage in introspection. You cannot win the trust of the country's people through fabricated media events and echoes of lies," Shah said.

'Power to empower'

resilience to sustained reforms, including changes in taxation, insolvency and labour laws.

"In a world filled with uncertainty, India offers the assurance of reliability and stability," he said.

Modi said the real value of economic and technological strength lay in how it was used. "Today, technology is power. Data is power. Knowledge is power. Innovation is power," he said, arguing that these resources should expand access to opportunities rather than become instruments of control.

He cited India's digital public infrastructure, affordable mobile data, digital payments and direct benefit transfers as examples of technology reaching different sections of society. The same digital payment systems used by street vendors are accessible to large businesses, he said. India is also sharing its digital expertise with partner countries, including through the open-source CoWIN platform developed during the COVID-19 pandemic.

The prime minister said India's startup ecosystem had grown from a few hundred ventures before 2014 to more than 250,000, with nearly half based in smaller cities and towns. More than 45 per cent of startups, he added, had at least one woman director or partner. He also said 25 crore people had been lifted out of poverty over the past decade.

Positioning India as a partner in global development, Modi said the country supplied one in five generic medicines worldwide and hosted more than 2,000 global capability centres. India's vaccine supplies to more than 100 countries during the pandemic, he said, demonstrated how domestic manufacturing could meet international needs.

"Beyond power to compete lies power to collaborate," he said, calling for greater cooperation on artificial intelligence, climate change, public health and water security.

Modi also cited India's renewable-energy expansion, saying capacity had risen from about 75 gigawatts in 2014 to approximately 300 gigawatts. He pointed to international initiatives on solar energy, disaster resilience and biofuels as examples of collaborative efforts.

Describing reforms as central to the growth strategy, Modi said the government had introduced the goods and services tax, strengthened insolvency laws and decriminalised hundreds of minor business-related offences.

"For us, reforms are not a compulsion. Reforms are our conviction," he said, arguing that India's growth should generate benefits beyond its borders.

Modi and Carney issued the following day, both sides agreed to deepen coordination against organised crime, violent extremism, human and drug trafficking, cybercrime and extortion, besides cooperating on the extradition of criminal offenders.

They also explored structured dialogues on cybersecurity and economic security, reviewed progress under their shared Security Work Plan and welcomed efforts to advance negotiations for a Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreement.

India-Canada relations deteriorated in 2023 after then Canadian prime minister Justin Trudeau alleged a potential Indian link to the killing of Khalistan separatist Hardeep Singh Nijjar. India rejected the accusation as "absurd".

Tensions escalated in October 2024, when India recalled its high commissioner and five other diplomats after Ottawa sought to link them to the case. New Delhi also expelled an equal number of Canadian diplomats.

Relations have since improved following Carney's election victory and his visit to India in March. Both countries have now posted high commissioners in each other's capitals, while recent engagements have opened avenues for expanded economic and security cooperation.

SC agrees

and Term of Office) Act, 2023, unconstitutional.

The provision bars courts from entertaining or continuing civil or criminal proceedings against serving or former election commissioners for acts, words or actions undertaken in the discharge of their official duties. The bench tagged the case with a similar pending petition filed by NGO Lok Prahari. In January, the court had agreed to examine that challenge but declined to stay the provision. Lok Prahari had argued that it grants the commissioners blanket, lifelong immunity for official wrongdoing.

Meanwhile, Gandhi's petition, backed by 10 opposition leaders, was not listed after the registry flagged 14 defects, including an unclear identity card copy of Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge and illegible or missing pages. "We will list all these matters. Make sure that the defects are cured," the CJI told senior advocate Gopal Sankaranarayanan.

The petition seeks an independent, time-bound audit of SIR-related deletions and modifications, led by a retired Supreme Court judge with technical experts. It also seeks notice and hearing safeguards before voter deletion, boothwise disclosure of deleted names and reasons, restoration mechanisms, and suspension of the ongoing revision pending adjudication.

The plea further seeks disclosure of Election Commission records and digital access logs, and scrutiny of disputed decisions under Article 324 of the Constitution and relevant election laws.

Union minister L Murugan

his life to serve "Bharat Mata" and Tamil Nadu under his leadership.

"With humility and grateful heart, I therefore request you to relieve me of my responsibility as MoS and permit me to relinquish my membership of the Rajya Sabha so that I may dedicate full time to strengthening the party in Tamil Nadu," he said.

The BJP leader from Tamil Nadu said everything he has received from the party and from Modi's leadership has deepened his sense of responsibility. He said the prime minister's dedication to India, Tamil Nadu and the BJP made him feel that he must now give more time to the party.

Murugan said the love and hope he witnessed during the prime minister's recent visit to Tamil Nadu have strengthened his conviction that there is much more the party can achieve in Tamil Nadu.

Ladakh is integral part

"The announcement mentions that the 28 places/features located in the UT of Ladakh have been identified with standard place and feature names on the official map of Survey of India, and it has been done in consultation with the Union Territory of Ladakh and local stakeholders," Jaiswal said.

"Identifying these places formally on the Survey of India map of UT of Ladakh is aimed at facilitating their accurate recognition and better awareness among the public at large," he said.

Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesperson Mao Ning said in Beijing that China strongly opposed India's decision to assign standardised names to the locations and geographical features in Ladakh.

"China has never recognised the so-called 'Union Territory of Ladakh' unilaterally and illegally established by India, and firmly opposes the so-called 'standardised names' publicised by India," she said.

NPCI defers MDR on UPI

transactions of Rs 75,000 or more. Person-to-person transfers and most routine merchant payments would remain free. Certain essential services, including railways, telecom, fuel and insurance, were to attract a flat Rs 5 fee on transactions above Rs 2,000, while capital market payments would carry a 0.02 per cent rate, capped at Rs 300.

The proposal drew criticism from Opposition parties, which argued that the levy could burden consumers.

Welcoming the postponement, the Confederation of All India Traders (CAIT) called it "timely and pragmatic", citing the festive and wedding season. The traders' body said additional costs could hurt businesses operating on thin margins.

CAIT said the decision followed a September 30 meeting in which around 20 trade leaders raised concerns with Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman.

RTI turns 21

The report said the CIC returned 14,603 cases against 31,179 registered during the period under review. It also cited earlier data showing that nearly 95 per cent of appeals returned by the CIC were not re-filed.

Amrita Johri, who is associated with SNS, said that many RTI applicants from poor and marginalised communities seek information about their basic entitlements and often pursue their cases without legal assistance.

She said commissions should take up appeals as long as the basic material is provided and called for the practice of returning appeals and complaints to be discontinued.

The concerns come amid rising pendency at the CIC.

Transparency campaigner Commodore Lokesh Batra (Retd.) told PTI that pending cases at the CIC had increased by 9,378 between January 1 and October 12, 2026, despite it having its full strength of 11 commissioners, including the chief information commissioner.

"This is a very worrisome situation and the CIC should be worried and take steps to reduce the pendency, like by working late hours," he said, adding the "guardians of transparency" had turned into "guardians of opacity".

Fourteen information commissions across the country may take a year or more to dispose of appeals and complaints, according to the report.

The estimated waiting period was 19 years and eight months in Tripura, 19 years and two months in Madhya Pradesh and 18 years in Chhattisgarh, it claimed.

Boat capsizes

circumstances leading to the accident are awaited.

Chief Minister Samrat Choudhary expressed grief over the deaths and announced financial assistance of Rs 4 lakh for the family of each deceased person.

In a post on X, Choudhary described the incident as "extremely sad and heartwrenching" and extended his condolences to the bereaved families. He also prayed for peace for the deceased and strength for their families to cope with the loss.

The chief minister said the state government would provide an ex-gratia payment of Rs 4 lakh to each affected family. He added that the administration had been directed to speed up rescue and relief operations and ensure appropriate medical treatment for those injured in the accident.

Punjab: Anti-drug activist shot dead by medical store owner in broad daylight

MPOST BUREAU
Chandigarh, October 13

Anti-drug activist Parvinder Singh, popularly known as Jhota, was shot dead in broad daylight in a crowded market in Punjab's Mansa district on Tuesday after confronting a medical store owner over the alleged sale of addictive drugs. Four of his companions were also injured in the firing, triggering protests, vandalism and political attacks on the ruling Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) government over law and order.

The incident occurred when Singh and his associates questioned chemist Ashwani Kumar for allegedly selling addictive substances to an elderly man. A video of the confrontation shows Singh challenging Kumar after the latter pulled out a pistol. Kumar subsequently opened fire inside the shop and pursued the activist outside, firing again.

DETAINED AGAIN

CJP leaders scale barricades & vow to 'reclaim' Jantar Mantar

MPOST BUREAU
New Delhi, October 13

Cockroach Janta Party (CJP) leaders Saurav Das and Ashutosh Ranka, along with around nine other members, were detained by Delhi Police early Tuesday after they allegedly breached barricades at Jantar Mantar, raised slogans demanding Chief Election Commissioner Gyanesh Kumar's resignation and entered the area despite prohibitory orders. The activists carried the national flag and described their action as an attempt to reclaim the recently denotified protest site. Police subsequently registered an FIR against Das, Ranka and other CJP members for allegedly entering the area without authorisation, with the case also covering the alleged breach of a peace bond signed by the two leaders after their earlier detention.

Videos shared by CJP founder Abhijeet Dipke showed activists running towards the heavily barricaded site, scaling a gate and raising slogans, including "Bharat Mata ki Jai" and "Inquilab Zindabad". They also recited the revolutionary poem "Sarfaroshi ki Tamanna" while demanding Kumar's resignation.

A senior police officer said the detained protesters were taken to Jaffarpur Kalan Police Station in Dwarka district. Security was strengthened around the station after other CJP workers gathered there. Dipke later alleged that the detained leaders were being denied access to their lawyers, questioning the police action.

"Fortress Jantar Mantar has been reclaimed," the CJP said in a statement, asserting that the denotification of the site would not stop its agitation. Ranka also vowed to continue the campaign, saying, "Jantar Mantar has been breached. The resignation of Gyanesh Kumar will happen at Jantar Mantar."

The detentions came days after Dipke, Das and Ranka were held on Saturday following their arrival in Delhi, as police thwarted the organisation's planned protest seeking Kumar's resignation. They were released the following day on the condition that they would not breach peace for a year. The dispute follows a standing order issued by Delhi Police Commissioner Anurag Kumar on October 11, designating Ramlila Maidan, Burari Ground and CBD Ground as venues for protests and demonstrations. Jantar Mantar was subsequently removed from the list of designated protest sites.

CJP said the denotification was announced on October 12, the same day its representatives approached Parliament Street Police Station to seek a date and time for a peaceful demonstration. The organisation questioned the timing of the decision, arguing that authorities could not ask citizens to seek permission and then change the rules while an application was being pursued.

CJP policy lead and national spokesperson Mehr Pasricha said shifting demonstrations away from the political centre of the capital would reduce their visibility. The youth-led organisation also cited constitutional protections for freedom of expression and peaceful assembly.

The latest action comes amid heightened security in New Delhi following calls by several organisations for protests against Kumar over alleged irregularities in the Special Intensive Revision of electoral rolls.

'Is waving tricolour a crime in India': Dipke

MPOST BUREAU
New Delhi, October 13

Cockroach Janata Party (CJP) founder Abhijeet Dipke on Tuesday accused Delhi Police of illegally detaining three party leaders after they entered Jantar Mantar and unfurled the national flag, alleging that the police were also preventing lawyers from meeting them.

CJP leaders Saurav Das, Ashutosh Ranka and Ajinkya Shinde were detained after reaching the protest site despite heavy barricading and a strong security presence. Dipke said the party's legal team would approach the court over their detention.

In a post on X, Dipke questioned how unfurling the Tricolour could constitute a violation of the law, alleging that the police action reflected a "dictatorial mindset".

"How can police stop lawyers from meeting them? This is kidnapping because the police certainly are not following the rule of law," he said, demanding action against those responsible.

Dipke also shared a video showing CJP members jumping over a gate to enter Jantar Mantar and raising slogans, including "Bharat Mata ki Jai", before police personnel rushed to apprehend them.

The CJP founder reiterated that the party's agitation demanding the resignation of Chief Election Commissioner Gyanesh Kumar would continue until the CEC stepped down. He said he would reach Delhi on Wednesday to join the protest, adding that if police stopped or detained him on the way, he would begin the agitation wherever he was stopped.

Dipke opposed Jantar Mantar's denotification, accusing Modi and Shah of suppressing dissent as police designated three alternative protest venues.

'FCRA Bill has clauses similar to UPA-era legislation'

Opposition alleges bill could hit minority institutions

MPOST BUREAU
New Delhi, October 13

BJP MP Sanjay Jaiswal, who heads the Joint Parliamentary Committee examining the Foreign Contribution (Regulation) Amendment Bill, 2026, on Tuesday said major provisions of the proposed legislation have the same clauses that were incorporated in the law enacted by the UPA government in 2010.

He said this after a meeting of the committee which interacted with Hindu, Christian and other groups and listened to their views on the proposed legislation, which is facing stiff opposition from certain sections and opposition parties.

Jaiswal said the Act of 2010 had given the power to the home secretary and the principal secretary of the state to confiscate properties of an NGO receiving foreign funding under the FCRA if there are irregularities while the new bill proposed to give the same power to a designated authority.

The JPC heard religious groups' views on the FCRA Bill, which the Opposition says could hurt minority institutions. The Centre maintains it seeks transparency and proper use of foreign funds.

Political families gear up for Uttar Pradesh election battle

BISWAJEET BANERJEE
Lucknow, October 13

With the Uttar Pradesh Assembly elections due in 2027, the next generation of established political families is seeking entry into electoral politics, intensifying the contest for tickets in the Samajwadi Party (SP) and BJP.

Relatives of sitting and deceased MPs and MLAs have increased their public outreach through local events and social media, seeking to build visibility and strengthen their claims. Among the BJP figures under watch is Neeraj Singh, son of Defence Minister and former Uttar Pradesh chief minister Rajnath Singh. Recently appointed a state vice-president, he has yet to contest an Assembly election, prompting speculation about a debut.

Assembly Speaker and eight-time MLA Satish Mahana's son, Karan Mahana, is also expanding his party activities. Former Uttar Pradesh governor Rita Bahuguna Joshi is seeking a ticket for her son, Mayank Joshi, who could also consider the SP. Former minister Swami Prasad Maurya, now with the Congress, may seek a ticket for his son, while former Union minister Sanjay Singh is reportedly promoting his lawyer daughter in Amethi.

MPs and MLAs prepare families for electoral debut

Faizabad MP Awadhesh Prasad's son, Ajit Prasad, is preparing to contest an Assembly seat after losing the by-election for the seat vacated by his father.

SP MP Lalji Verma is reportedly considering his doctor daughter, Chhaya. Kerakat MLA Tufani Saroj is seeking a ticket for his son, Dhananjay; his daughter, Priya Saroj, is already a Lok Sabha MP and recently represented India at the United Nations. Other SP leaders pursuing tickets for their children include Azamgarh MLA Durga Prasad Yadav, Sambhal MLA Iqbal Mahmood, Amroha MLA Mehboob Ali, former SP leader Rajendra Yadav and former minister Ambika Chaudhary. Their sons–respectively unnamed in Yadav's case, Suhail Iqbal Mahmood, Parvez Ali, Shivendra Yadav and Anand Chaudhary–are being considered for seats in Azamgarh, Sambhal, Amroha, Lucknow and Ballia. The son of former minister Fareed Mahfooz Kidwai is also preparing to contest from Barabanki.

The deaths of senior legislators and former ministers have opened further opportunities for political succession.

Alam Badi, the Assembly's oldest member, died in July at 90. The SP must decide whether to field his son, Mustajab Alam, from Nizamabad. The death of former SP minister Ram Govind Chaudhary has strengthened the prospects of his son, Ranjit Chaudhary, in Bansdih, Ballia.The BJP and BSP face succession claims from political families, while dynastic ambitions ahead of the 2027 polls threaten to intensify competition with party workers.

Beyond The Fuel Bill

India's vulnerability to expensive energy extends far beyond the petrol pump or the monthly electricity bill. Every increase in fuel and power costs travels through the economy, raising freight charges, manufacturing expenses, agricultural input costs and ultimately consumer prices. A rise in diesel prices makes transporting vegetables, grains and manufactured goods more expensive. Costlier electricity squeezes small businesses, while energy-intensive industries face shrinking margins and declining competitiveness. Farmers confront higher irrigation and transportation expenses, and service providers pass additional operating costs to customers. These pressures can reinforce inflation even when domestic demand remains moderate. For an economy aspiring to become a global manufacturing powerhouse, energy affordability is therefore not merely a consumer welfare concern. It is central to industrial competitiveness, food security and sustained economic growth.

India's dependence on imported crude oil exposes it to geopolitical tensions, disruptions in shipping routes and fluctuations in international commodity markets. A sharp increase in global prices can widen the import bill, strain the current account and put pressure on the rupee. Currency depreciation, in turn, makes imported energy more expensive, creating a cycle of external vulnerability and domestic inflation. The consequences extend to fertilisers, petrochemicals, aviation, logistics and electricity generation. Monetary policy can moderate demand and contain inflationary expectations, but higher interest rates cannot produce additional crude oil or reopen disrupted shipping routes. Governments also face difficult choices between allowing international prices to reach consumers, reducing taxes or providing subsidies. Each option carries economic consequences, particularly when public finances are already committed to infrastructure, welfare and development expenditure.

Long-term resilience requires reducing the economy's exposure to imported fossil fuels without compromising energy security. Expanding renewable electricity generation is essential, but installed capacity alone cannot guarantee dependable supply. Investments in transmission networks, battery storage, pumped-storage projects and grid modernisation must accompany the transition. Domestic manufacturing of solar equipment, batteries and other critical technologies can reduce new forms of import dependence. Electrifying public transport, improving railway freight capacity and encouraging energy-efficient industrial processes would help moderate petroleum consumption. Strategic petroleum reserves, diversified import arrangements and reliable long-term supply contracts can provide additional protection against sudden disruptions. Equally important is ensuring that electricity distribution companies become financially sustainable, since persistent losses, delayed payments and inefficient pricing weaken the entire power system.

Energy policy must also recognise the unequal burden of rising costs. Smaller enterprises possess limited capacity to absorb price shocks, while poorer households spend a greater proportion of their incomes on essential consumption. Targeted assistance, transparent pricing and predictable taxation can cushion vulnerable groups without creating unsustainable subsidies. India cannot insulate itself completely from global energy markets, nor should energy independence be confused with economic isolation. The objective must be diversification, efficiency and institutional preparedness. A resilient economy is not one that escapes every external shock, but one that can absorb disruption without transferring its highest costs to households, farmers and businesses.

Nature's Riches

The Norwegian Ambassador's appreciation of Meghalaya's natural beauty highlights the state's immense tourism potential. Its waterfalls, caves and landscapes deserve greater international recognition. However, sustainable tourism must remain a priority. Better infrastructure, responsible visitor management and environmental conservation can ensure Meghalaya's natural treasures benefit local communities without ecological damage.

The Hypocrisy Of Electoral Outrage

Those questioning electoral roll revision must confront allegations of intimidation, infiltration and manipulation that have long shadowed Bengal's political history

POLITICAL FAULTLINES

ANIRBAN GANGULY

THE WRITER IS MEMBER NEC, BJP & CHAIRMAN, DR SYAMA PRASAD MOOKERJEE RESEARCH FOUNDATION

For those of us who have long suffered in West Bengal, the anti-SIR howls of the Congress, Left and TMC stink of unalloyed hypocrisy.

The last Congress Chief Minister of West Bengal was Siddhartha Shankar Ray, a Bengali bhadralok and barrister who had facilitated the imposition of the Emergency by Indira Gandhi. That was fifty years ago. One doesn't foresee another Congress Chief Minister of West Bengal for at least the next fifty years.

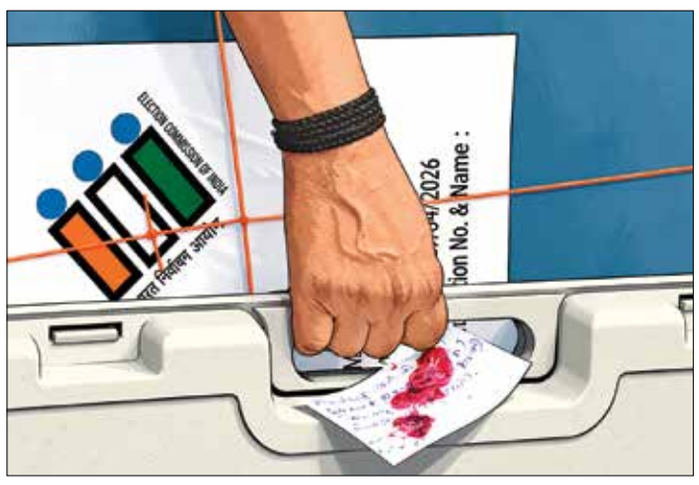

The "Family" Congress minions will tell you that it was Ray who had instigated Indira to impose the Emergency; left to herself, she would not have done it. The Nehru family courtiers always look for a scapegoat. For Nehru's debacle in 1962, it was K M Panikkar and Krishna Menon; for Indira in 1975, it was Ray; and for Rajiv in 1989, it was his "Doon School" coterie of Arun Nehru and Arun Singh.

The current AISA-CPIML cabal may not know about the third-degree treatment that Ray administered to Charu Mazumdar (CM) and his ideological children, the Naxals. Ray's third-degree treatment broke the upsurge's back for good in West Bengal. With Charu killed and Kanu (Kanu Sanyal) debilitated, many of these AISA types fled the country and ensconced themselves in Ivy League institutions in the West, which they had been berating. But Siddhartha Shankar Ray is someone the present Congress would want to forget. Remembering Ray makes it difficult for the Congress to hold aloft the CPIML flag today.

In 2026, after fifty years, ordinary voters in West Bengal felt relieved that they could cast their own votes. It was the first election in fifty years that saw no bloodshed, bombing or killing. Every voter could cast her or his own vote without fear of being bullied or bludgeoned. It was a milestone in free India's democratic reassertion.

Bombing, terrorising voters, killing opposition candidates, booth jamming and capturing, locking high-rise communities, enabling ghost voters to cast their votes while chasing away legitimate voters who had come to vote – all had become part of the electoral grammar in West Bengal.

The Congress had introduced these murderous methods in the early 1970s, the Left-CPI(M) had institutionalised them, and the TMC had mastered that dark art. The killing of candidates and workers of opposition parties, in the TMC's case, for instance, had been normalised in West Bengal. Those yelling "Vote-Chori" today had perpetrated and abetted this violence.

Decades of alleged electoral manipulation complicate the opposition's campaign against SIR today

THOSE YELLING 'VOTE-CHORI' TODAY HAD PERPETRATED AND ABETTED THIS VIOLENCE

The Congress, the CPI(M) and, later, the TMC have also unabashedly aided and facilitated infiltration from across the border into West Bengal. Over the decades, they have consolidated these illegal immigrants into a vote bank. While SIR in West Bengal enabled genuine voters to vote, it also cleansed the electoral rolls of these ghost and illegal voters.

For decades, the Congress-Left-TMC ecosystem encouraged and justified this infiltration. T V Rajeswar has left behind an authentic record. A Nehru family acolyte and admirer, especially close to Rahul Gandhi's grandmother, a former Director of the IB and former Governor of Uttar Pradesh, Rajeswar was Governor of West Bengal between 1989 and 1990.

The "resign CEC" cartel has a record of stalling any attempt to detect and deport infiltrators. Take the case of the Prevention of Infiltration Programme of 1963, proposed by the then IB Director, B N Mullik. The programme was implemented with support from the governments of Assam and West Bengal. During 1963-65, Rajeswar wrote in a series of articles he penned in 1996 for a leading English daily, "about 150,000 illegal immigrants were repatriated to East Pakistan." The scheme was, however, "abandoned in 1967 after a strident campaign was unleashed by interested parties."

As Governor of West Bengal, Rajeswar undertook extensive tours of the border districts. Rajeswar's study of reports on the border belt of West Bengal yielded "some telling statistics."

Between 20 and 40 per cent of villages in these districts, he wrote, were "predominantly Muslim. There are indications that the concentration of the minority community, including the Bangladesh immigrants, in the villages has resulted in the majority community moving to urban centres. Several towns in the border districts are now predominantly inhabited by the majority community but surrounded by villages mostly dominated by the minority community." He cited this as a "security threat."

Basing his assessment on various reports and his extensive tours, T V Rajeswar concluded that, in 1989, in 50 per cent of West Bengal's 294 Assembly constituencies, "Bangladesh immigrants could play an important role" in influencing the results. "Does this explain," he asked, "why the Bangladesh immigrants have been extended extra-legal facilities by every government in West Bengal, whether of the Congress or CPI-M? They were treated more as vote banks than as an economic, demographic or law and order problem."

Among his proposals to tackle this gargantuan national security challenge was the deletion of infiltrators' names from the electoral rolls – "their names should be deleted from the electoral rolls."

It riles the actual "Vote-Chors" that SIR has successfully detected and deleted their illegal "Vote-Bank". It is making them yelp in desperation.

A Collective Voice Beyond Fear

Young women in Delhi are transforming everyday anxieties about safety into collective political action, challenging conventional leadership and reclaiming public space

CIVIC AWAKENING

SIDHARTH MISHRA

THE WRITER IS AN AUTHOR AND PRESIDENT, CENTRE FOR REFORMS, DEVELOPMENT & JUSTICE

Delhi's young women are no longer followers but leaders of their movements

The most striking feature of the Gen Z protests witnessed in Delhi over the past few months is the growing visibility of young women. They are marching shoulder to shoulder with men and, at times, assembling independently to demand their safety and dignity.

This distinct form of women's mobilisation is, as the sociologists would put it, the emergence of a distributed, experience-led form of women's political drive. Its defining feature is that young women are converting personal anxieties and shared experiences into collective political action without necessarily passing through the conventional channels of student politics.

Consider the independent demonstrations around women's safety, including the recent gathering at Delhi University's North Campus. When women have to organise their everyday lives around the possibility of harassment or violence, personal security becomes a question of citizenship.

The demand is no longer merely for the punishment of perpetrators but for the right to occupy public space. The protests following the alleged sexual assault of a minor near Aastha Kunj Park in South Delhi have questioned not only the adequacy of security arrangements but also the tendency to respond to crimes against women by restricting their movement or shifting classes online.

The memory of December 16, 2012, inevitably hangs over these demonstrations. A generation that grew up hearing that the Nirbhaya protests marked a watershed in the country's treatment of violence against women is discovering that the promise of change remains incompletely fulfilled.

The current anger derives from the contradiction between the language of women's empowerment and the everyday restrictions imposed in its name. This may also explain the apparent absence of a single commanding leader at some of these gatherings.

THE DEMAND FOR SAFETY IS BECOMING A LARGER ASSERTION OF EQUAL CITIZENSHIP

The absence of a visible face does not necessarily mean an absence of social organisation. College friendships, student societies, messaging groups and social media have replaced student unions in giving calls to assemble. These 'informal networks' are also coordinating logistics and articulating demands.

Leadership, in such circumstances, becomes distributed. One student may mobilise her classmates, another drafts a charter of demands and a third emerges as a persuasive speaker. None may be a full-time activist. Together, they, however, are creating a political presence that is difficult to attribute to any one organisation.

These young women are claiming ownership of a political space that established organisations may support but do not necessarily control. Establishing this would require examining who initiated the gatherings, how decisions were made and what role organised student politics played behind the scenes. The absence of a familiar leader alone cannot settle the matter.

However, what makes the mobilisation particularly interesting is its potential to transcend conventional political affiliations. A shared experience like lack of safety can provide common ground where an established political doctrine might not.

The struggle also extends beyond the state. Even at her home, the burden of preventing violence is transferred from institutions and perpetrators to its potential victims. A women-only gathering is challenging this arrangement by converting private fear into collective knowledge. Discovering that hundreds of others share the same anxieties has transformed isolation into solidarity.

This does not mean that every women-only demonstration constitutes a new women's movement. Nor should the wider Gen Z mobilisation be reduced to a single political grievance. Electoral revision, examination controversies, unemployment and women's safety are distinct issues. But they have converged around a broader dissatisfaction with institutions.

The protests also challenge the stereotype of Gen Z as politically frivolous, distracted by social media and incapable of sustained engagement. Digital fluency is not the opposite of political consciousness. The same networks used for entertainment has facilitated mobilisation, where a student who has never attended a conventional political rally develops a powerful political conviction through personal experience.

It's the absence of a conventional activist background that makes this mobilisation distinctive. A young woman need not have to read feminist theory to recognise the unequal restrictions placed on her life, nor belong to a student union to decide that those restrictions are unacceptable. This denotes a psychological metamorphosis.

If this mobilisation continues to grow, it would mark a change in the grammar of protest itself. The young women of Delhi would no longer be merely participants in somebody else's movement. They would be defining the grievance, creating the collective space and asserting the right to be heard on their own terms.

Responsibility That Power Demands

From accepting unforeseen responsibilities to honouring difficult commitments, Janaka's example shows why leadership demands more than authority, ambition or personal conviction

BHARAT KI SOCH

ANIL RAJPUT

THE WRITER IS CHAIRPERSON, BHARAT KI SOCH

Principles are easy to admire when they cost nothing. Their real value appears when keeping them brings pressure, uncertainty and consequence. In the Valmiki Ramayana, King Janaka of Mithila is remembered through moments in which responsibility, judgement and commitment are tested. Because Janaka was also a dynastic designation associated with the rulers of Videha, different Indian texts preserve accounts associated with different Janakas. The figure considered here is specifically the Janaka of the Ramayana, the ruler of Mithila and father of Sita. His story raises a question that remains relevant to every position of authority: what happens to principle when power and pressure meet?

One of the most memorable episodes begins not in a court but in a field. Janaka recounts that while he was ploughing and consecrating the ground for a sacrifice, an infant emerged from the furrow. He named her Sita, a name associated with the furrow, accepted her as his daughter and raised her as his own. The significance lies not only in the extraordinary circumstances of Sita's appearance, but also in Janaka's response to them. He did not treat the unexpected as someone else's concern. He accepted a responsibility that had arrived without warning. Responsibility does not always come through designation, inheritance or formal instruction. Sometimes it appears because circumstances place something important before us and ask what we will do with it.

The same principle matters in organisations. A senior executive may inherit a damaged team, an unresolved problem, a neglected capability or a crisis created before his tenure. It is easy to say that the problem belongs to someone else or began before one arrived. Janaka's example suggests a higher standard. Leadership begins when responsibility is accepted rather than passed on. The question is not always, "Who caused this?" but "Who is now in a position to act?" Accountability becomes meaningful when authority is used to address what exists, not merely to distance oneself from how it began.

Janaka's conduct regarding Sita's marriage reveals another dimension of his character. He had declared that the man who proved capable of handling the formidable bow of Shiva would meet the condition he had established for her marriage. Kings came to Mithila, but they could not even lift the bow. Janaka did not alter the condition to accommodate rank, reputation or pressure. The episode belongs to an ancient social setting and should be understood within that context, but its underlying ethical principle remains relevant. A declared standard loses its meaning if it changes whenever an influential person fails to meet it.

King Janaka's decisions reveal why true leadership demands courage and accountability

GOOD LEADERSHIP COMBINES DECISIVENESS WITH INSTITUTIONAL DISCIPLINE

Corporate institutions confront this temptation constantly. Recruitment criteria may be relaxed for the well-connected, performance expectations made flexible for favoured executives, procurement procedures stretched for powerful vendors or governance processes treated differently when the person seeking an exception has sufficient influence. Such compromises often appear small at first. Their deeper cost is cultural. Once people see that standards depend upon who is standing before them, trust in the system begins to weaken. Fair institutions are not those that never exercise judgement. They are those in which judgement does not become a disguise for privilege. A leader's integrity is tested not when applying a standard to the powerless, but when maintaining it in the face of pressure from the powerful.

The consequences for Janaka were severe. The rejected kings, angered by the outcome, laid siege to Mithila. The Ramayana describes the city suffering under this pressure for a year until its resources were depleted. Janaka recounts that, deeply troubled, he undertook austerities and sought divine assistance. He then received renewed military strength, and the attacking rulers were defeated and driven away. Whatever the theological dimension of the episode, Janaka's role is clear. He did not simply defend a principle and leave his kingdom to bear its consequences. He acted to protect Mithila. Holding a principled position is only one part of leadership. A leader must also take responsibility for the consequences that position creates for others.

This distinction is especially important in corporate life. Leaders can sometimes make a bold decision and describe themselves as principled while employees, suppliers or junior colleagues are left to absorb the risk. That is not sufficient. If leadership chooses a difficult course, leadership must also build the capacity to sustain it. Cash reserves, contingency planning, legal preparedness, communication, operational resilience and protection of employees are not separate from responsible decision-making. Courage is not exposing other people to avoidable harm in the name of conviction. It is accepting the cost of a decision while preparing the institution and its people to withstand its consequences.

There is another lesson in the siege. Janaka's initial decision concerned his daughter, but once Mithila was threatened, his responsibility changed in scale. The issue was no longer confined to the circumstances in which it began. The welfare of a kingdom had become involved. Leaders must recognise when an individual decision has acquired institutional consequences. At that point, it cannot continue to be viewed only through its original lens. Authority expands responsibility. The more people a decision can affect, the greater the obligation to consider its wider consequences.

When Rama later lifted, strung and broke Shiva's bow, Janaka recognised that the condition had been fulfilled. Yet the process did not end with the dramatic achievement. With Vishvamitra's approval, Janaka sent envoys to Ayodhya to inform King Dasharatha and seek his consent. Dasharatha, in turn, consulted his ministers and teachers before travelling to Mithila. Janaka knew what he intended to do, but he still respected the relationships and procedures surrounding the decision.

Modern organisations often become most vulnerable to shortcuts immediately after success. A leader can become convinced that because the objective is right, the process can be bypassed. Due diligence feels slow, consultation appears unnecessary and governance begins to look like an obstacle rather than a safeguard. Yet sound processes exist precisely because even desirable outcomes can be damaged by poor execution. Good leadership combines decisiveness with institutional discipline. It knows when to move quickly without confusing speed with the right to act alone.

Janaka also kept his word. After Rama fulfilled the declared condition and the appropriate consent had been sought, Janaka did not search for a more advantageous arrangement or reinterpret his earlier commitment. In his message to Dasharatha, he explicitly referred to the promise he had made and expressed his desire to fulfil it. In corporate life, credibility is built in much the same way. Employees remember whether commitments survive inconvenience. Partners notice whether terms change once bargaining power shifts. Markets learn whether an organisation's stated principles remain intact when honouring them becomes difficult. Reputation is not created by promises that are easy to make. It is created by what we do when keeping them costs something.

At the wedding, Janaka's words add another dimension. As he places Sita before Rama, he describes her as his daughter and as Rama's companion in dharma. The relationship is therefore expressed not simply in terms of ceremony or alliance, but through the idea of sharing the responsibilities of life. The strongest relationships are not sustained only by affection, advantage or convenience. They are strengthened by shared responsibility and a common understanding of what both sides are trying to uphold.

The principle extends beyond personal relationships. Businesses depend upon partnerships between founders and professional managers, boards and executives, companies and suppliers, senior leaders and emerging talent. Such relationships weaken when one side sees the other merely as an instrument for its own success. Durable partnerships require reciprocity, clarity of purpose and respect for the responsibilities carried by the other side. Collaboration becomes stronger when people are united not only by what they hope to gain, but also by what they are prepared to uphold together.

Janaka's story therefore offers something broader than a model of authority. He accepts an unforeseen responsibility, establishes a standard, refuses to bend it for powerful interests, protects his people when his decision brings danger, respects the process when the desired outcome finally arrives and honours the commitment he made. Together, these episodes present a sequence of responsible leadership: accept what is yours to address, decide by principle, prepare for consequences, protect those affected, respect institutions and keep your word.

Titles eventually pass to someone else. Success changes form, influence moves and even the most powerful office is temporary. What gives authority lasting value is the quality of judgement exercised while it is held. Janaka's example reminds us that power is safest when it is governed by responsibility, standards are meaningful only when they withstand pressure and conviction becomes leadership only when it includes concern for those who must live with its consequences.

The true test of leadership is not how much power you hold, but whether you can hold it without becoming its prisoner.

Israel's Growing International Isolation

Financial restrictions and diplomatic tensions signal mounting international opposition to Israeli policies; writes Asifullah Khan

Israel under Benjamin Netanyahu is facing a growing wave of international isolation. A recent report in the Israeli daily Yedioth Ahronoth described the emerging threat as a "tsunami" of sanctions targeting government officials, settlers and institutions.

The war in Gaza, the mounting civilian death toll, the expansion of settlements in the occupied West Bank and the conduct of far-right ministers have pushed the Jewish state into isolation, where it can count its friends on its fingers. The Reservists-Economic Party leader, Einat Wilf, says Israel has lost the war of narratives, creating consequences that extend beyond the country's reputation.

This was highlighted by a report in Haaretz, which said Luxembourg had recently declined to continue approving bond issues by Israel Bonds, the New York-based organisation that raises money through the sale of Israeli government bonds. Ireland had previously relinquished the role. The danger for Israel is that the withdrawal of cooperation in one area could encourage restrictions in others.

According to the figures cited by Yedioth Ahronoth, a database maintained by Shuki Friedman, head of the Jewish People Policy Institute, recorded 110 sanctions in force involving 54 countries, with additional measures proposed. These figures cover different kinds of restrictions and should not be mistaken for a comprehensive economic embargo. Nevertheless, they point to the growing reach of international pressure.

ISRAEL HAS LOST THE WAR OF NARRATIVES

The measures range from restrictions on Israeli officials and violent settlers to boycotts, divestment initiatives and limitations on trade involving settlements. Britain has also announced a ban on trade in goods produced in Israeli settlements in the occupied West Bank, a move that has further strained relations between London and Jerusalem. Reuters reported in October 2026 that the dispute had escalated to the possibility of Britain expelling Israeli diplomats if Israel proceeded with closing the British consulate in East Jerusalem.

These cumulative sanctions and restrictions bring to mind apartheid-era South Africa, which did not become an international pariah overnight.

A series of United Nations resolutions called on nations to cut diplomatic, cultural, sporting and defence ties with South Africa. International pressure and political mobilisation eventually helped create the conditions for the dismantling of apartheid.

Present-day Israel is facing a similar situation. Compared with the South African economy, Israel's economy is resilient. But this does not make Israel immune to future uncertainties.

Israel is still far from being apartheid-era South Africa. The argument that Israel has the right to defend itself has hit the law of diminishing returns, and the political and economic factors that led to South Africa's isolation are becoming increasingly visible in Israel's own isolation.

How can a country remain part of the comity of nations when its prime minister faces genocide charges at the International Court of Justice (ICJ), and the International Criminal Court (ICC) has issued an arrest warrant against him for war crimes? Even the apartheid-era South African leaders did not face such charges.

Shah asks BIMSTEC nations to boost intel-sharing, extradition

'India believes in resolving all disputes bilaterally'

NARESH BISWANI
New Delhi, October 13

Union Home Minister Amit Shah on Tuesday asked BIMSTEC member countries to boost intelligence-sharing, extradition and joint law enforcement to fight cross-border terrorism, organised crime, narcotics trafficking and human trafficking.

Speaking at the first-ever Home Ministers-and Home Secretaries-level meeting of the seven-nation regional grouping, Shah said criminal syndicates were using international borders and gaps between countries to grow their "criminal empires".

"We cannot fight these issues in isolation," he said while briefing the ministers about India's efforts to combat terrorism and insurgency in Jammu and Kashmir and Assam.

"India has never believed in attacking or establishing supremacy over any country. India respects the sovereignty of every nation. We believe in resolving all disputes bilaterally," he said.

The minister said there was a need to share actionable intelligence in real-time and also ensure that no country provided a safe haven to criminals.

"Criminal organisations are using encrypted applications, social media, drones, cryptos and the dark web to target and lure people into terror camps or to indulge in financial frauds," he said, adding there was a need for joint efforts in the areas of extradition and repatriation.

"Bangladesh, Bhutan, India, Nepal, Myanmar, Sri Lanka and Thailand constitute the 'Golden Triangle' of narcotics trafficking in the world. Drug cartels are a big threat to the young generation of our countries," he said, adding that there was a need to formulate a regional strategy to combat the menace of drugs.

He also said that "human trafficking and cyber slavery" were major issues affecting the region and a common protocol among BIMSTEC nations would help to combat such crimes.

He said the state government is committed to ensuring farmers' convenience and protecting their hard-earned produce. Adequate space must be provided for unloading and keeping produce during procurement so that mandis remain orderly and farmers face no difficulty in selling their crops.

Work on 'mission mode' against stubble burning: Centre to states

MPOST BUREAU
New Delhi, October 13

CHOUHAN TERMS THE RISE IN CASES IN MP AND RAJ 'EXTREMELY CONCERNING'

Ahead of the peak crop residue burning season, the Centre on Tuesday asked Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan, Punjab, Haryana and Delhi-NCR governments to work in "mission mode" to prevent stubble burning.

A high-level inter-ministerial meeting, chaired by Agriculture Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan and Environment Minister Bhupender Yadav, reviewed stubble management with state agriculture ministers and officials.

"Very little time remains between the harvesting of the current crop and the sowing of the rabi crop. Therefore, the administrative machinery must step away from paperwork and work directly on the ground on a war footing," the two ministers said.

States have been asked to hold immediate meetings with district magistrates to ensure strict monitoring and practical solutions.

Reviewing data for September 15 to October 12, Chouhan noted a significant fall in burning incidents over the previous year: 53.3 per cent in Haryana and about 32 per cent in Uttar Pradesh. Punjab also recorded a decline.

However, he termed the rise in Madhya Pradesh (55 to 277 cases, up 452 per cent) and Rajasthan (20 to 60, up 200 per cent) "extremely concerning".

He directed both states to identify affected districts and villages and put a special action plan in place immediately. With a large part of the harvest still to come, states with fewer incidents must not become complacent, he said.

Farmers get only 20-25 days between paddy harvest and wheat sowing, and burning remains the quickest and cheapest way to clear fields, despite damaging soil nutrients and organisms and worsening air pollution in Delhi-NCR.

The real test will come in the mid-October to mid-November peak, when harvesting overlaps with the wheat sowing window. "Simply telling farmers not to burn stubble is insufficient; we must provide them with easy, accessible and affordable alternatives," Chouhan said.

Residue incorporated into the soil becomes organic manure, while residue removed from fields can earn farmers extra income through bio-CNG, bio-ethanol, electricity and fodder, he said.

The aim, he added, is to build a system where farmers don't feel the need to burn and can also gain from eco-friendly practices such as carbon credits.

'INDIA REMAINS AMONG FASTEST-GROWING MAJOR ECONOMIES'

IMF raises India's economic growth forecast to 7% in current financial year

OUR CORRESPONDENT
Washington, October 13

The International Monetary Fund (IMF) has raised India's growth forecast to 7 per cent in 2026-27, higher than the 6.4 per cent in July, on the back of resilient domestic demand and robust services activity, placing the country among the fastest-growing major economies.

"India remains among the fastest-growing major economies, with growth in 2026 projected at 7.0 per cent," the IMF said in the World Economic Outlook (WEO) report released at its annual meeting in Bangkok.

"This reflects stronger-than-expected momentum, supported by resilient domestic demand and robust services activity," the report said.

It said India is projected to grow at 7 per cent in 2027-28, up from the July estimate of 6.7 per cent.

It said India's growth remained robust, underpinned by domestic demand and services, despite higher oil prices.

On the medium-term outlook, the IMF said India stands out with upward revisions, reflecting sustained momentum and growing evidence of stronger growth potential supported by favourable demographic dynamics, a large and expanding domestic market, and continued structural reforms.

ON THE MEDIUM-TERM OUTLOOK, THE IMF SAID INDIA STANDS OUT WITH UPWARD REVISIONS, REFLECTING SUSTAINED MOMENTUM & GROWING EVIDENCE OF STRONGER GROWTH POTENTIAL

According to the IMF, global output is projected to expand at an average annual pace of 3.2 per cent in 2028-31, a persistently lacklustre performance compared with the pre-pandemic (2000-19) historical average of 3.7 per cent.

Relative to that, in January 2026, the medium-term outlook has become increasingly uneven, with downgrades concentrated among economies directly affected by the conflict in the Middle East and energy-importing emerging market and developing economies elsewhere, excluding India.

On trade, the WEO said new agreements "such as the EU's recent trade agreements with India and MERCOSUR (South American regional economic and political integration bloc)... or the United Kingdom's agreement with India" could lower tariff and non-tariff barriers, help economies adjust to recent trade policy changes and strengthen supply-chain resilience.

KEY POINTS

- It said India is projected to grow at 7 per cent in 2027-28, up from the July estimate of 6.7 per cent
- Meanwhile, the IMF has slightly upgraded its outlook for the world economy for this year, but it's still forecasting growth at a sluggish 3.1%
- IMF Economic Outlook predicts that growth in the US will remain steady at 2.3% in 2026 & 2027

Meanwhile, the IMF has slightly upgraded its outlook for the world economy for this year, but it's still forecasting growth at a sluggish 3.1%.

The IMF had forecast global growth at 3.0% in July. The world economy expanded at a 3.5% annual pace in 2025.

The IMF Economic Outlook predicts that growth in the United States will remain steady at 2.3% in 2026 and 2027.

Countries that are somewhat insulated from the energy shocks of the Iran war and that are benefiting from rapid adoption of AI are managing to keep growth on track. But developing economies and emerging markets more vulnerable to higher costs for oil and gas will see growth slow to 3.7% this year from 4.5% in 2025, the report says. It forecasts they will regain momentum next year, expanding at a 4.4% annual pace.

The situation is much worse in the Middle East and Central Asia, where those regions' economies are expected to contract this year before recovering to a 6.3% rate of growth in 2027.

The 21 European countries that share the euro currency are expected to grow by 1.1% this year and 1.2% in 2027.

China, the world's No. 2 economy, is expected to expand 4.5% this year, down from 5% in 2025, in line with the government's official target.

The IMF is a 191-nation lending organization that works to promote economic growth and financial stability and to reduce global poverty.

At the meetings in Bangkok, finance ministers and central bank governors will assess the state of the world economy and discuss strategies to support financial stability and sustained growth.

Adani Enterprises, Jabil sign pact for 50:50 AI hardware JV in India

OUR CORRESPONDENT
New Delhi, October 13

Adani Enterprises and US-based manufacturing firm Jabil have signed a non-binding agreement to set up a 50:50 joint venture to manufacture artificial intelligence and data centre equipment in India as demand for computing infrastructure accelerates.

The proposed venture would make and assemble AI racks, servers, storage and networking equipment, alongside power distribution systems, liquid-cooling equipment and transformers.

It is envisaged as a multi-gigawatt manufacturing platform serving Indian and global customers, including hyperscalers and data centre operators.

The agreement remains subject to definitive contracts, regulatory approvals and customary conditions, the companies said in a statement.

It follows an announcement in June of the companies' intention to build an AI and data centre hardware manufacturing ecosystem in India.

The memorandum of understanding (MoU) sets out a proposed joint venture (JV) between Jabil and Adani for building a multi-gigawatt AI infrastructure platform in India - spanning AI racks, servers, networking, power and cooling systems.

The JV aims to serve India's accelerating data centre demand, with industry forecasts projecting capacity of 5-8 GW by 2030 and more than $50 billion in planned hyperscaler spending across data centre, cloud, and AI ecosystems.

The companies estimate the global market opportunity at more than $3 trillion over the next seven years as investment in AI compute infrastructure continues to surge.

Once established, the JV would serve the world's leading AI ecosystem players - from hyperscalers and neoclouds to data centre operators and enterprises - with infrastructure made in India for India and for the world.

India's data centre capacity is projected to reach 5-8 gigawatts by 2030, driven by the expansion of cloud computing, AI adoption and data-localisation requirements, the companies said.

They estimate the global market opportunity for AI computing infrastructure at more than $3 trillion over the next seven years.

The venture would expand Adani's presence beyond energy supply and data centre development into manufacturing the hardware that powers AI computing.

The group has committed $100 billion to developing 5 GW of green-energy-powered, AI-ready data centres by 2035.

For Jabil, which reported revenue of $36 billion in fiscal 2026, the partnership would deepen its exposure to India's data centre market by combining its engineering and manufacturing capabilities with Adani's energy and infrastructure assets.

Adani Group Chairman Gautam Adani said the proposed venture would help the group move further up the AI value chain, while Jabil Chief Executive Mike Dastoor said the partnership would support the expansion of rack-level data centre solutions for customers in India and overseas.

The companies said the proposed investment aligns with India's ambitions to expand domestic digital infrastructure and establish the country as a manufacturing base for global AI demand.

Gautam Adani, Chairman, Adani Group, said: "The AI revolution will demand far more than just breakthroughs in algorithms. It will require an entire new industrial architecture where energy, hyperscale infrastructure, advanced computing and precision manufacturing converge to power the intelligence economy".

Noel Tata files caveat against fellow SDTT trustees, including Vijay Singh, Srinivasan

Mumbai, October 13

Tata Trusts chairman Noel Tata and his son Neville Tata have filed caveats in the Bombay High Court and Mumbai City Civil Court against fellow trustees of the Sir Dorabji Tata Trust (SDTT), court records showed.

The caveats, filed on October 7, name Venu Srinivasan, Vijay Singh, Darius Khambata and Bhaskar Bhat, the other four members of SDTT's six-member board.

The filings seek to ensure that the courts hear Noel and Neville Tata before passing any orders on applications filed by the other trustees against them.

DEVELOPMENT COMES AMID A WIDENING GOVERNANCE DISPUTE AT SDTT, WHICH HOLDS AROUND 28% OF TATA SONS, HOLDING FIRM OF TATA GROUP

The development comes amid a widening governance dispute at SDTT, which holds around 28 per cent of Tata Sons, the holding company of the Tata Group and its largest shareholder.

Srinivasan and Singh had filed complaints with the Maharashtra Charity Commissioner on September 25, raising concerns over the trust's administration, governance and role in Tata Sons.

Their objections include Noel Tata's status as a perpetual trustee and chairman of Tata Trusts, as well as Neville Tata's induction into SDTT.

India eyes Andaman as Indo-Pacific trade gateway

AGENCIES
New Delhi, October 13

India is looking to position the Andaman and Nicobar Islands as a maritime and economic gateway to the Indo-Pacific, focusing on shipping routes, port connectivity and resilient supply chains amid global trade disruptions.

The priorities were outlined at a curtain-raiser for the Andaman Dialogue 2027, scheduled for March 12-14, 2027, at Swaraj Dweep, bringing together representatives from more than 15 countries. Commerce & Industry Minister Piyush Goyal said the islands could bridge South and Southeast Asia through trade, logistics, shipping, digital infrastructure and finance.

Admiral Dinesh K. Tripathi, Chairman of the National Maritime Foundation and former Chief of the Naval Staff, highlighted their strategic proximity to major shipping routes. He called for cooperation in maritime surveillance, port connectivity, shipbuilding, ship repair and seafarer training.

India-ASEAN trade reached approximately $128 billion in 2025-26, accounting for around 11% of India's total trade, Tripathi said.

He said the Information Fusion Centre-Indian Ocean Region, currently hosting liaison officers from approximately 16-17 partner countries, aims to increase the number to 50 by 2028. He also proposed extending maritime information-sharing arrangements to commercial shipping in the Andaman Sea.

Tripathi cited a Rs 69,725-crore package for shipbuilding and the maritime sector and investment commitments of approximately Rs 12 lakh crore announced during India Maritime Week. Participants discussed vulnerabilities affecting shipping routes and critical infrastructure, including subsea cables, emphasising resilient regional networks and rules-based cooperation.

Representatives from Fiji, Djibouti, Seychelles, Sri Lanka, Australia, Singapore, Mauritius, Thailand, Vietnam and the Maldives attended the event. The curtain-raiser was jointly convened by the Forum for Integrated National Security & Centre for Domestic Economy Policy Research.

'Forex measures aim to ensure orderly rupee movement, not to restrict capital flows'

'RBI observed that about 1/3rd of forex derivative trades cancelled on same day, indicating excessive speculation'

AGENCIES
Mumbai, October 13

Reserve Bank of India (RBI) Governor Sanjay Malhotra has said the central bank will consider additional measures to curb speculative trading in the foreign exchange market if required, stressing that recent steps aim to ensure orderly currency movements rather than restrict capital flows.

In an interview with Moneycontrol, Malhotra said the RBI had observed that around one-third of forex derivative trades were cancelled on the same day, indicating excessive speculation. Measures include prohibiting the rebooking of cancelled forex derivative contracts, introducing a forex reserve requirement and reducing limits from $100 million to $5 million.

He said forex markets should primarily serve genuine hedging requirements rather than speculative bets. The RBI does not target a particular price level or band for the rupee, but seeks to prevent excessive volatility and one-sided positioning.

Reserve Bank Governor Sanjay Malhotra

Malhotra described the external sector as India's main macroeconomic challenge, despite strong domestic growth, healthy bank balance sheets and improving corporate earnings. He said the government and RBI would take further steps, if necessary, to strengthen the balance of payments.

The governor rejected suggestions that the measures amounted to capital controls, noting that capital account transactions had been excluded from foreign exchange reserve ratio requirements for customers. Foreign portfolio investors can continue bringing money into and taking it out of India, while non-residents can invest in equities, debt and corporate bonds and through external commercial borrowings.

Malhotra said India's medium- and long-term balance of payments outlook remained strong, supported by services exports, remittances, foreign direct investment and trade agreements. The target of 20 percent ethanol blending has been achieved, while energy transition initiatives are expected to reduce crude import dependence.

On liquidity, he said durable liquidity, including government balances, stood at around Rs 10 lakh crore, while funds actually available with banks were around Rs 3.5 lakh crore. He said the situation was short-term and unlikely to cause deterioration in credit quality or inflation.

Malhotra added that monetary policy decisions would consider financial stability alongside price stability, although targeted regulatory and macroprudential tools remained the primary instruments for addressing financial stability risks.

He said the RBI remained optimistic about India's economic resilience and had sufficient tools to ensure orderly market conditions, adding that further action would be taken jointly with the government if necessary.

EXTERNAL FACTORS DRIVING CURRENCY FALL

Reserve Bank to continue efforts to curb rupee volatility: Sitharaman

OUR CORRESPONDENT
New Delhi, October 13

Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Tuesday said the RBI will continue its efforts to prevent excessive volatility in the rupee, which has depreciated "very significantly" over the past year and a half.

She said the rupee has reached a low against the US dollar mainly due to global uncertainties, even though India's macroeconomic fundamentals, including forex reserves, are strong and the regulator RBI is ensuring that the domestic currency stays stable.

"I am sure there are efforts which the RBI would take further to make sure that rupee doesn't become too volatile," Sitharaman said at the Bloomberg New Economy Forum 2026.

Asked about rationalisation in taxes in the securities market, the minister said the debate around STT and long-term capital gains tax rationalisation is "healthy", and she will "keenly" hear these debates.

Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman

THE MINISTER SAID THE DEBATE AROUND STT AND LONG-TERM CAPITAL GAINS TAX RATIONALISATION IS 'HEALTHY,' SHE SAID

"We are very close to the Budget, and the preparation for the Budget has started. It may not be the best time for me to say what I will or what I will not consider," she said. The Union Budget 2027-28 is likely to be presented on February 1.

Sitharaman further said that the long-term capital gains tax is something on which a lot of people have been commenting, and the issue also came up during her conversation with investors in India and abroad. "... It's healthy to have this debate, and I will be keenly hearing them," she said.

On the rupee, the minister said the RBI, through its measures, is trying to prevent volatility and not "fix" the rupee level.

"So, these efforts from the RBI... will continue not to, as I said, fix the rupee. We would appreciate it if the rupee finds its own (level)," the minister said. The RBI over the weekend announced a slew of measures to stem rupee fall.

The central bank announced the creation of a special window for oil marketing companies, which will take US dollar demand away from the spot market and tightened rules governing forex derivatives trades to curb speculative bets against the rupee.

Sitharaman said the latest measures by the RBI supported the rupee as its value appreciated one per cent on Monday. On Tuesday, it appreciated to Rs 94.96 in the early trade.

India's fundamentals are fine, with sound foreign exchange reserves, she added. The minister said the rupee depreciation is "very significant" over the last one and a half years, stemming mainly from external challenges.

"Within the country, we are making sure that we keep the macroeconomic fundamentals sound... fiscal discipline is not going to be a matter which should worry investors. But as regards the rupee, and as regards the way it is reacting to the ups and downs with the dollar, yes, that's where the challenge is, and we will be attending to it," Sitharaman added.

To support the rupee amid the West Asia crisis, the government and RBI in June announced a slew of steps to attract dollars into the country.

To reduce compliance burden for foreign investors in G-Secs, the government expanded the list of specified securities under the Fully Accessible Route (FAR) to include new issuances in G-Secs. Besides, income tax exemption was given to income from interest and capital gains made by FPIs from investments in G-Secs.

The RBI also allowed banks to access RBI's swap facility for Foreign Currency Non-Resident (Bank) (FCNR(B) deposits with maturities ranging from 3-5 years.

NSE IX & London Stock Exchange sign MoU for strategic collaboration

MPOST BUREAU
Gandhinagar, October 13

NSE IFSC Limited (NSEIX) and London Stock Exchange (LSE) plc have signed a memorandum of understanding (MoU) to explore strategic collaboration, including cross-border growth, listing and trading opportunities for issuers and investors in both markets.

The agreement establishes a framework to examine dual and cross-listings across equities, fixed income and exchange-traded funds (ETFs), trading of existing financial products and development of new products, including derivatives on NSEIX using FTSE Russell indices as underlying references.

The exchanges will also explore jointly developing equity indices, cross-border trading connectivity and market data distribution.

V Balasubramaniam, Managing Director and CEO of NSEIX, said the collaboration builds on the India-UK Comprehensive Economic and Trade Agreement (CETA), which seeks to open avenues for capital market connectivity and financial services integration.

He said the exchanges would explore cross-listings and a cross-border connection to enable seamless two-way trading, improve liquidity and broaden the investor base. NSEIX's presence in the GIFT IFSC ecosystem and the London Stock Exchange's position as the UK's oldest and largest exchange could help both leverage their strengths, he added.

She said the exchange had a strong track record of partnerships with exchanges globally and welcomed opportunities to strengthen its relationship with NSEIX.

The proposed collaboration aims to expand market access and create new avenues for issuers and investors in India and the UK.

The exchanges will explore potential areas of cooperation under the framework, with the MoU providing a basis for further discussions rather than confirming specific launches or timelines.

Indonesia relocates endangered orangutans into protected forest

JAKARTA: Eight endangered orangutans, including three mothers with infants and two adolescent males, have been released into a protected forest in Indonesia's Borneo after wildfires destroyed parts of their habitat.

The animals were rescued from fire-ravaged areas in Ketapang and North Kayong regencies between August and September. They were relocated to Batu Nyambu protected forest in West Kalimantan on October 8, conservation group YIARI said. The fires destroyed habitat corridors and food sources, forcing the apes into plantations.

Zelenskyy says Russia strikes energy facilities

KYIV: Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy said Monday that Kyiv was ready to halt attacks on Russian energy infrastructure but accused Moscow of continuing strikes despite US President Donald Trump's announcement of an immediate energy ceasefire. Speaking at the Warsaw Security Forum, Zelenskyy said Russian forces had hit a power plant in Kharkiv, a gas production facility and a civilian gas station.

He said Ukraine had refrained from targeting Russian energy sites since Trump's announcement, calling a ceasefire a "good first step".

Germany Nuremberg airport briefly closed

BERLIN: German authorities briefly shut Nuremberg Airport on Tuesday and scrambled fighter jets to escort a passenger plane from Greece over concerns about an in-flight emergency, dpa news agency reported.

Police cordoned off the airport before the aircraft from Corfu landed safely, after which authorities issued an all-clear. Details of the emergency were not immediately available. A possible drone sighting had also been reported earlier.

The incident delayed six flights and forced two inbound flights to divert.

Saudis probe how defence systems failed to stop deadly Houthi attack

- One of the officials said the investigation also aims to find out why air defence systems did not provide earlier warning of the attack in which the Houthi missiles and drones flew over 1,000 kms (620 miles) to reach Riyadh
- The incident, one of a string of Houthi attacks on Saudi airports, has exposed vulnerabilities in Saudi Arabia's defence system and signalled a dangerous inflexion point...

Saudi Arabia has launched an investigation to determine how its air defences failed to intercept a barrage of missiles and drones fired by Iran-backed Houthi rebels, including an attack on Riyadh airport that killed at least 13 people and wounded over 300, two regional officials said Monday.

The officials, who spoke on condition of anonymity because they were not authorised to comment publicly, said the initial probe showed that Yemen's Houthis first fired multiple drones to pave the way for a mix of cruise and ballistic missiles to reach Riyadh's King Khalid International Airport.

The Houthis possess ballistic missiles and advanced systems fitted with warheads that can change direction during flight and pose a challenge to Patriot interceptors and other defence systems used by the Saudis.

One of the officials said the investigation also aims to find out why air defence systems did not provide earlier warning of the attack in which the Houthi missiles and drones flew over 1,000 kilometres (620 miles) to reach Riyadh.

The incident, one of a string of Houthi attacks since last week on Saudi airports, has exposed vulnerabilities in Saudi Arabia's defence system and signalled a dangerous inflexion point in an expanding Middle East conflict that began more than seven months ago when the US and Israel launched their war against Iran.

The Saudi-led coalition also said it had twice intercepted and destroyed ballistic missiles launched Monday by Yemen's Houthi rebels toward Riyadh.

At least three explosions could be heard Monday night in the city. There was no immediate claim of responsibility. Civil Defence officials later said the danger had passed.

Earlier on Monday, the Saudi state-run media reported that its military was responding to a new attack involving drones and cruise missiles, but provided no details.

"The events of recent weeks are serious," Saudi Energy Minister Prince Abdul Aziz bin Salman told the World Petroleum Energy Congress in Riyadh on Monday. "Our response must be equally serious."

Houthis tighten grip on Yemen's third-largest city, sparking panic

People use minibuses to save gasoline in Taiz AP

As word came of Houthi rebels advancing on Taiz, Weam Abdullah and her family decided it was time to leave Yemen's third-largest city. They had survived a years-long siege by the rebels earlier in their country's civil war, and they didn't want to endure that again.

They made it out just in time. Shortly after Abdullah, her husband and two young children left, the rebels captured a key town on Oct. 4, largely encircling Taiz and cutting off most supply routes from government-held areas.

"We already feel dead; there was already despair" in the city, Abdullah told The Associated Press by phone from a province farther south. "We feel as if we are cursed. Everyone is conspiring against us even though we're not affiliated with any party or politics."

The Iran-backed Houthis are pushing to capture Taiz, a long-sought prize in Yemen's 12-year civil war, as they also escalate attacks on Saudi Arabia, including a string of deadly strikes on the airport in the capital, Riyadh.

The assault follows a lightning offensive last month in which the rebels seized Yemen's Red Sea coast, strengthening their ability to attack Saudi oil shipping and plunging global energy prices further into turmoil.

The advance has triggered fear among Taiz's more than 1 million residents, who live in the rugged mountains of southwestern Yemen. On a recent day, crowds mobbed grocery stores in the city centre to buy up food and other essentials, fearing they will soon run out. Diesel fuel and cooking gas supplies are running low, residents said.

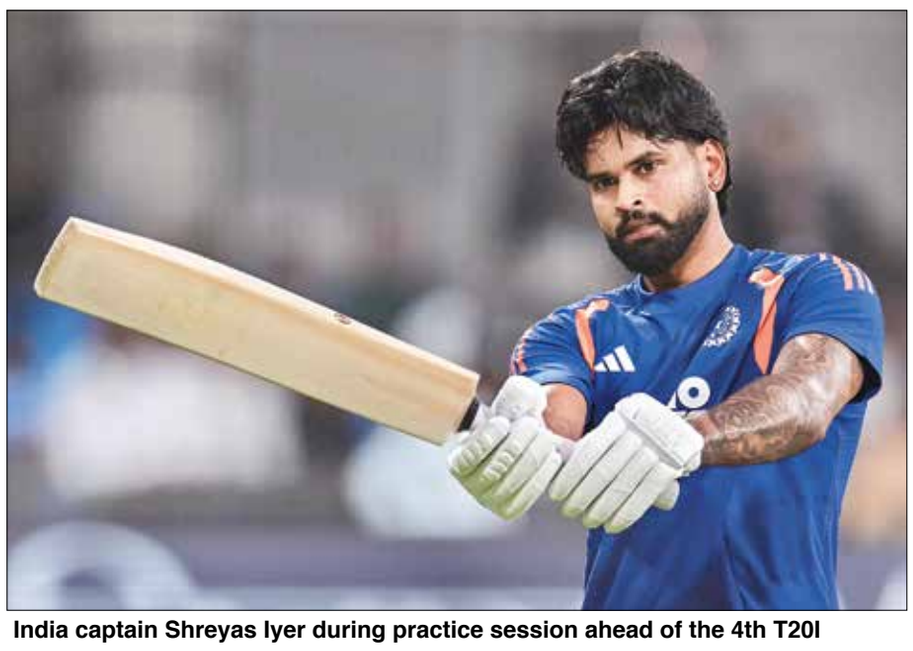

Some residents are collecting cardboard and wood to burn for cooking, while merchants are raising food and water prices, said Shaif al-Gabiri, a child protection consultant at the Civic Centre for Advocacy and Support, a local nonprofit group.

IND VS WI FOURTH T20I

India eye series-clinching win; West Indies look to stay afloat

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
Hyderabad, October 13

India captain Shreyas Iyer during practice session ahead of the 4th T20I

TEAMS

- INDIA: Shreyas Iyer (c), Ishan Kishan, Sanju Samson (wk), Naman Dhir, Vaibhav Sooryavanshi, Tilak Varma (vc), Abhishek Sharma, Shivam Dube, Nitish Kumar Reddy, Axar Patel, Arshdeep Singh, Kuldeep Yadav, Prince Yadav, Ravi Bishnoi, Mayank Yadav
- WEST INDIES: Shai Hope (c & wk), Jewel Andrew (wk), Shimron Hetmyer, Amir Jangoo (wk), Kamil Pooran, Rovman Powell, Sherfane Rutherford, Quentin Sampson, Roston Chase, Keemo Paul, Romario Shepherd, Shamar Springer, Matthew Forde, Akeal Hosein, Shamar Joseph, Gudakesh Motie

India's marauding batters would be eyeing another run feast against a West Indian attack that would have to do more than just be defensive when the two sides clash in the potentially series-deciding fourth T20 International here on Wednesday.

India need a win to seal the five-match rubber by going 3-1 up, while the West Indies would be desperate to draw level at 2-2 to keep the series alive.

The battle on ground is once again expected to be decided predominantly by the power-hitters in both sides. The hosts will bank on a line-up whose top order is in great form. The trio of Sanju Samson, Abhishek Sharma and Ishan Kishan has come good in turns to ensure that the Indian middle order has not been put under too much pressure in the series so far.

Abhishek smashed 69 off just 30 balls in the third T20I in Indore, striking six fours and five sixes to help India post a winning 223-run total.

The only concern for the home team would be a relative lack of game time for the middle order due to the top three's brilliant run.

The likes of Tilak Varma, Nitish Kumar Reddy and Naman Dhir would have to be up for the challenge in case the top three have an off day, especially in a scenario where the team is chasing a big target.

The West Indies, on the other hand, have been struggling to find a way to contain the Indian juggernaut.

If it was skipper Shreyas Iyer, who took the lung-opener from them with his maiden T20I hundred, Sanju Samson and Ishan Kishan proved to be difficult to handle in the second game that the visitors eventually won.

Abhishek dominated the proceedings in the third game and all-rounder Shamar Springer had no hesitation in acknowledging that his team had no option but to adopt a defensive approach against the on-song opener.

"...I guess our plan B is to just be as defensive as possible and try to make him get singles and twos," Springer had said, admitting how hard it is to stop Abhishek once he gets going.

For the Caribbeans, opener Sherfane Rutherford has had a terrific series, averaging over 57 for his 172 runs thus far at a brilliant strike rate of 189.

He has smacked 12 sixes in three games and is the leading run-getter in the rubber.

Skipper Shai Hope too has led by example and amassed 159 runs at a strike of 182 to make sure that the team's reputation of being a T20 batting powerhouse remains intact.

The visitors, in fact, have hardly been a pushover despite their lower ranking but they would need a stronger all-round performance to upstage the reigning world champions on home turf.

Nonetheless, India's bowling attack will have to remain disciplined as the West Indies batting unit has shown that it is capable of chasing big totals.

Match starts at 7PM IST.

The team demonstrated its abilities quite well in the second T20 in Ranchi, where it chased down India's 249 in 18.3 overs thanks to Hope's 45-ball 102.

In Indore, Shimron Hetmyer (43) and Kamil Pooran (42), and Springer (35 not out) brought the West Indies close before Arshdeep Singh's three-wicket haul helped India seal the contest.

Spinner Naman Dhir also impressed with figures of two for 39, providing India with another useful bowling option.

The batters in both dugouts would be eager to take the field at Hyderabad, which recorded an average first-innings score of around 209 across seven IPL matches in this year.

Dew, however, is not expected to be a big factor under lights, and the teams will need to assess the conditions on the day before deciding their approach at the toss.

Shubman Gill, Shafali Verma named 'Player of the Month'

Gill bags ICC honour for a record fifth time in Sept

India captain Shubman Gill was on Tuesday named ICC men's Player of the Month for a record fifth time following his outstanding performance in the ODI series against the West Indies, while opener Shafali Verma claimed the women's honour for her impressive show in the Asia Cup and the Asian Games.

Gill emulated West Indies captain Haley Matthews, who has also been the ICC Player of the Month on five occasions. The 27-year-old was previously honoured for the months of January and September in 2023, and February and July in 2025.

"It feels fantastic to win my fifth ICC Player of the Month award, and I am grateful to the panel for this honour," said India's Test and ODI captain, who struck a fine 110 in the first ODI against the West Indies in Thiruvananthapuram.

Gill then smashed the quickest double-century ever, his 223 off 133 balls helping his team chase down a huge 406-run target with eight wickets in hand and 39 balls still left.

"It was immensely satisfying to score those runs and even more special to be part of successful run chases in front of our home fans, whose support always gives us an extra boost," Gill said.

"The pace of ODI cricket has gone up significantly, and you must think on your feet, assess the conditions quickly and adapt to the demands of the pitch and the target.

Verma, who had won the award in November last year following her match-winning knock in the World Cup final against South Africa in Navi Mumbai, was once again in the spotlight for her performances in big matches.

The aggressive opener was the highest run-scorer for her team as India won the Women's Asia Cup.

'Bhuvneshwar's recall reward for his success'

MPOST BUREAU
New Delhi, October 13

Ravichandran Ashwin believes Bhuvneshwar Kumar never had an India comeback on his mind while consistently delivering for Royal Challengers Bengaluru in the IPL, with the pacer's performances eventually earning him a recall to the national T20I squad after four years.

Bhuvneshwar's inclusion in India's squad for the upcoming five-match T20I series against New Zealand, beginning next week, was among the major talking points following the selection announcement.

Former India off-spinner Ashwin felt the experienced pacer concentrated on his responsibilities rather than worrying about the rewards that could follow his performances.

"I have a feeling that Bhuvneshwar Kumar hasn't even thought about a comeback. I think this will be his mantra for success. And when I'm watching him from afar, I have also experienced this myself, he has gone on his own journey," Ashwin said on his YouTube channel.

"He has focused on doing well, bowling well with the new ball and performing for RCB. Whatever he could do, he did it. His recall is the reward for his success. He never chased that reward; he simply did his job and success followed," he added.

Bhuvneshwar's return has also triggered speculation over Mohammed Shami's international future.

'We're pausing for a bit'

Robert Pattinson opened up about 'The Batman Part II' production

Robert Pattinson said the makers of 'The Batman Part II' are 'figuring things out' following the news of a pause in the film's production. The film, which is directed by Matt Reeves, features the actor's return as the Caped Crusader and is a follow-up to 2022's 'The Batman'.

When asked about the film, the actor admitted there's a pause, but assured things are being sorted out. "We're pausing for a little bit and then we're going to figure it all out," he told 'Official Pop Drop' during 'Primetime' promotions.

The film was originally scheduled to release on October 2, 2026, before being pushed to October 1, 2027. In July, 'Warner Bros' moved the release date again to February 2028.

Reeves' first film, 'The Batman', starred Pattinson as Bruce Wayne, who is shown in the second year as a vigilante in Gotham City as he hunts a sadistic serial killer named the Riddler, who is targeting the city's corrupt elite. Instead of using a public persona to hide his identity, Pattinson's Bruce is a recluse and ignores his corporate duties and society. He featured alongside Zoe Kravitz, Paul Dano, Colin Farrell, Jeffrey Wright and Andy Serkis, among others. The sequel also has Scarlett Johansson, Farrell, Sebastian Stan, Serkis and Wright.

'The Batman', which presented a standalone version of the DC superhero separate from the wider 'DC Universe', grossed more than 770 million dollars worldwide.

The story was followed by HBO's 'The Penguin', starring Farrell as Oswald 'Oz' Cobb, which explored Gotham's criminal underworld after the events of the film. PTI

FOR SINGER HANITA BHAMBRI, 'TOXIC' HAS BEEN HER DEBUT VEHICLE IN THE MAINSTREAM MUSIC SCENARIO

Yash's starrer 'Toxic: A Fairytale for Grown-Ups' was one of the most hyped theatrical events in 2026. However, the Geetu Mohandas-directed film has turned into one of the year's biggest financial failures. But then, every film also comes with its own fate and singer Hanita Bhambri definitely made the most out of 'Toxic'. For her, 'Toxic' has been her debut vehicle in the mainstream music scenario, where she has sung and written the lyrics for the title track. The song features Hanita alongside Vishal Mishra (also the music composer).

"The entire process was quite organic. I was brought on to write the lyrics and while we were developing the song, the idea of me singing came up. The song has a very specific attitude and energy and I think the team felt that my voice naturally belonged in that world. What started as a writing assignment ended up becoming something beyond my wildest dreams," said Hanita, who has collaborated with names including Zaeden, Raghav Meattle, Sejal and Avanti Nagral in the past as an indie musician.

It was Hanita's debut album 'Shoharat' that established her as an artist with a distinctive, emotionally driven sound and strong songwriting identity. The singer-songwriter also said that working with Mishra was a learning experience on 'Toxic'. "He has a very instinctive understanding of melody and emotion. As a songwriter, I really value collaborations where you feel like you can bring your own voice to the table," she said.

After her debut stint with a mainstream film, Hanita is now looking to explore more work in the movie space, both as a songwriter and singer. "I've really enjoyed being part of this world. So, let's just say there are a few things brewing," she said.

'KAREENA KAPOOR KHAN IS VERY GIVING AS ACTOR'

'Daayra' actor Upendra Chauhan worked for the second time with director Meghna Gulzar

ANINDITA ACHARYA

Upendra Chauhan might not be the name that would instantly come to your mind when we talk about promising talents in Hindi films now. But then, this actor with a background in engineering is gradually making his presence felt in important works like 'Sam Bahadur', 'Bhaukaal' and now 'Daayra'. In Meghna Gulzar's new film, he played Inspector Vishal on Kareena Kapoor Khan's SIT team.

"For me, every process is different, but one thing is always common. I first try to understand what the character loves the most and what he fears the most. I believe human beings operate from just two things at the root level: love and fear. With Inspector Vishal, I wasn't trying to play a cop. I was trying to understand the man behind the uniform. Meghna gave me very clear emotional motivations and once I understood his belief system and his relationships, the body language and the rest started finding their own place naturally," he said.

This is his second film with Gulzar after the National Award-winning film, 'Sam Bahadur'. Chauhan said that working with the famed director has been one of the biggest learning experiences of his career. "Her narrations are incredibly detailed. She doesn't just tell you what the character is doing; she helps you understand why the character is doing it. She gives actors a lot of trust. As a performer, that freedom allows you to explore without fear. I genuinely feel she makes you a better actor because she constantly takes your attention back to the emotional truth of the scene," he said.

"MEGHNA GULZAR GIVES ACTORS A LOT OF TRUST. AS A PERFORMER, THAT FREEDOM ALLOWS YOU TO EXPLORE WITHOUT FEAR"

And in 'Daayra', Chauhan shared the screen space with the brilliant actress Kareena and the actor said that the 'Jab We Met' actress listens and makes every scene feel alive. "Kareena has such a strong screen presence, but at the same time she's very giving as an actor," said Chauhan, who played a cop in 'Bhaukaal', 'System' and 'Daayra'.

The actor, meanwhile, has also worked as a writer on 'Undekhi' and 'Bhaukaal'. "After spending years writing stories, screenplays and characters, something happens almost subconsciously. I can read a single scene and my mind automatically starts building that character's backstory, motivations and belief system. More importantly, writing helps me see the story as a whole. I understand the screenplay's rhythm, editing and how much my character should do and how much he shouldn't. It stops me from acting only for my own character and helps me serve the entire story," said the 'Rudra: The Edge of Darkness' actor.
